ROGERS, POST KILLED!

Tragedy Told In Detailed Story; Famed Pair Crash In Alaska Lake

Humorist, Flier Die As Plane Crashes Near Pt. Barrow

(Copyright, by the Associated Press, 1935)

BARROW, Alaska, Aug. 16.—An airplane crash at the "top of the world" today had taken the lives of Will Rogers, America's foremost humorist, and Wiley Post, noted aviator.

Their crushed bodies were taken from the wreckage of Post's new monoplane at the mouth of a small river 15 miles southwest of here. Post's wristwatch had stopped at 8:18 p. m. (Santa Ana time) last night.

Native runners brought word of the accident to Barrow late last night and Staff Sergeant Stanley R. Morgan, signal corps operator, stationed at this, America's most northerly white settlement, hired a fast launch and went to the scene at once.

Stopped to Inquire Way

Native camping at the scene reported Post and Rogers had landed in the river last night to inquire the way to Barrow. After a brief stop, during which the flier tinkered with his plane and Rogers chatted with the natives, the pair got into the plane for the short hop to Barrow.

The trim plane, which Post had built for a leisurely flight to Alaska and Siberia, developed engine trouble soon after it took the air and plunged, head-on, into the right bank of the river from an elevation of only 50 feet.

Both men were killed instantly. The motor was driven back into the fuselage by the force of impact and the right wing was sheared off. Belongings in the plane were scattered in the crash.

Post Trapped at Controls

Sergeant Morgan first removed Rogers' body from the smashed cabin then was obliged to tear the plane apart to recover Post's bruised body, trapped at the controls by the plane's engine.

The wreckage was partly submerged in two feet of water. Sergeant Morgan brought the bodies back to Barrow and placed them in care of Dr. Henry W. Greist, medical missionary in charge of the Barrow Presbyterian hospital.

Thus ended the aerial vacation jaunt of thousands of miles of Post and Rogers. Post said he intended to fly to Siberia to hunt and fish after touring Alaska with Rogers, who joined the flight "between pictures" after Post had reached Seattle August 1 on his way north.

Set Plane Down on Lake

Fog and low clouds menaced the fliers from the time they left Fairbanks yesterday. After flying only 50 miles, the plane was set down on Harding lake, while Post inquired about the weather ahead over the mountain range which separates the Arctic slope from the interior of Alaska.

The fliers encountered fog again as they reached the ice-choked Arctic coast, and visibility was so bad they had lost their way when they stopped at the native camp.

Rogers had planned to leave Post at Fairbanks and return to the east coast where he was scheduled to meet his wife in Boston the later part of this month. Post was to continue on to Siberia.

The accident occurred at the height of the brief Arctic summer when it is daylight almost around the clock. The United States coast guard cutter Northland was waiting in the ice pack only a few miles away from Barrow on its annual visit to the settlement.

Post and Rogers had been entertained in Fairbanks for several days while their plane was being serviced. They flew in a regular transport plane to Anchorage Wednesday and visited the Matanuska colony near there.

This was Post's second crash in Alaska. On his first round-the-world flight, Post's red monoplane "Winnie Mae," made a forced landing and was damaged near Flat, on the Yukon river in central Alaska. Post was unhurt and suc-

Roosevelt Speaks Nation's Sorrow Over Catastrophe

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 16. (AP)—President Roosevelt expressed the shock of the nation today upon learning of the death of Will Rogers and Wiley Post whom he said were "outstanding Americans and will be greatly missed."

Mr. Roosevelt was informed of the death of the two distinguished men and friends by the Associated Press shortly after his arrival here today from the White house for a brief visit home. He made the statement:

"I was shocked to hear of the tragedy which has taken Will Rogers and Wiley Post from us. Will was an old friend of mine, a humorist and philosopher beloved by all. I had the pleasure of greeting Mr. Post on his return from his round-the-world flight. He leaves behind a splendid contribution to the science of aviation. Both were outstanding Americans and will be greatly missed."

HOOVER SHOCKED AT NEWS OF TRAGEDY

CHICAGO, Aug. 16. (AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover today said the deaths of Wiley Post and Will Rogers were a "terrible shock" to him.

In a statement issued after he had been informed of the tragedy by the Associated Press, Mr. Hoover said:

"The news of the death in an airplane crash of Will Rogers and Wiley Post has come as a terrible shock to me.

"I have long known both of these fine Americans and have long been appreciative of their accomplishments. In origin and accomplishment they were typically American, with their careers appealing to everyone appreciative of the pioneer spirit.

"They were great souls and I feel a sense of deep personal loss in their passing."

CAPITAL LEADERS TELL OF THEIR GRIEF

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16. (AP)—The capital, where Will Rogers was loved as few others of his time, grieved today to hear of his death.

"Oh, that is awful bad!" exclaimed Vice President Garner, raising his hands on learning that Post had crashed.

"Just two mighty good men lost to the world.

"I can't talk about it. Rogers was one of the best friends I had."

Speaker Byrns, incredulous at first, later said he could not find immediate words to express his sorrow.

Hurley Pays Tribute

Patrick J. Hurley, secretary of war in the Hoover administration, friend of Rogers since they were boys together in Oklahoma, called him "one of the cleanest, finest characters I have ever known. He was one of nature's noblemen.

"I knew Wiley Post well, also.

PRISONER IN ESCAPE HERE

Boy Burglar, Sentenced To San Quentin, Flees From His Guards

Sentenced to San Quentin prison this morning, Gerald Lage, 19-year-old "screen burglar," escaped early today while being removed from the court room to the county jail. He had pleaded guilty to robbing the home of B. Z. McKinney, 2385 Heliotrope drive.

Lage and eight other prisoners, handcuffed together, were descending the courthouse stairs in custody of Bailiffs Frank Dawson and Fred Humiston. When at the

BAN BATHERS AT NEWPORT

Bathers have been banned from lagoons in West Newport and a portion of the bay at the Arches by orders of the county health department, it was announced today.

Sanitary inspectors for the department yesterday posted notices closing the area when it was discovered that the waters were so heavily polluted with sewage as to be a menace to public health if continued to be used for bathing.

Dr. K. H. Sutherland, county health officer, said the ban will remain in effect until Newport Beach city officials have corrected the situation.

Dr. Sutherland stressed the fact that other portions of the bay and East Bay are not affected by the sewage and are perfectly safe for bathers.

More than a week ago a protest was lodged with the board of supervisors by the Bay Island club that large yachts at anchor make it a practice to dump garbage and pump bilge into the bay. It was also charged that some of the boats discharged untreated sewage into the waters.

Busy Day Looms Tomorrow For This Popular Fellow

They couldn't have tomorrow if it weren't for me.

I'll do triple duty but I won't care because every time I make a counter attack, my popularity will increase. In fact, I expect to be somewhat grubby looking before the end of the day. My crispness will have crumpled somewhat and the Father of our Country will probably even look a bit hard-pressed.

Some of my 27 one's may even look worn, but I shall have gained considerable experience even if I am a "green back."

I am tomorrow's popular dollar bill!

Reports of the decision of the three groups to separate and establish their own exchange, with offices at Placentia, were confirmed today by George Crawford, manager of the northern exchange, who said that organization is cooperating with the three houses in launching their new project.

The withdrawing houses are the Placentia Orange Growers association of which Jack Prizer is manager; Bradford Brothers Packing house of Placentia, managed by Ray Easton, and the Placentia Mutual Orange association, of which Harry Easton is manager.

LOSS OF EYE NO HANDICAP

Accident Did Not Stop Post

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 16. (AP) From a modest farm near Maysville, Okla., Wiley Post rose to become one of the world's greatest fliers, not satisfied with making the fastest time around the globe, but pushing on to new achievement in the stratosphere.

Post had early ambitions to become an airplane pilot, and these were not stopped by an accident in a machine shop several years ago which cost him the sight of one eye.

With Burrell Tibbs and Dorsey Askew as his instructors, he learned to fly and joined them as a parachute jumper in their "flying circus."

After three years of "barnstorming" he settled down to become the personal pilot of F. C. Hall, wealthy independent oil operator who later became his backer in the flights that brought Post and the Winnie Mae world fame.

City's 1935 Retail Trade Nears $15,000,000

Santa Ana's retail business for 1935 will run between $12,000,000 and $15,000,000, and will be between 53 and 63 per cent of the boom turnover of 1929.

This was the estimate made today on the basis of data compiled in a recent business survey by S. C. Irwin, Los Angeles, who operates a land and building service. The figures were made public here by Howard I. Wood, secretary of the chamber of commerce.

Per capita purchases in Santa Ana this year will amount to approximately $429, the highest per capita figure of any city in the county with the exception of Laguna Beach. This coast community, Mr. Irwin's figures indicate, will have a per capita business of $770 in 1935.

Santa Ana's figure, it is said, is nearly twice as high as per capita figures for Southern California metropolitan areas.

Mr. Irwin's data is based on sales tax returns for three-quarters of 1934. The last quarter figures were not available at the time he made his survey. For the last quarter he assumed business would more than equal the third quarter turnover, and for this reason he added 10 per cent.

The figures he arrived at for Santa Ana, $12,982,280, he said he believed were low because of improved business conditions this year. Mr. Irwin said that for his purposes he adds 20 per cent to

MRS. ROGERS PROSTRATED

Victim's Wife To Rush Home

NEW YORK, Aug. 16. (AP)—Mrs. Will Rogers today telephoned friends in New York that she would leave Skowhegan, Me., as soon as possible for the Rogers home in California.

At the Maine town, where she is with her daughter, Mary, Mrs. Rogers telephoned that she would leave for the coast not later than tomorrow.

Friends described her as being too upset by the shock of her husband's death to make definite arrangements for the journey.

Mrs. Rogers and her daughter will be accompanied West by Dorothy Stone, daughter of Fred Stone.

SUPERVISORS OFF TONIGHT TO PUSH WATER PLAN

PAIR CHANGE PLANS FOR JOURNEY

Seek Federal Financing For County Flood Control Project

John C. Mitchell, chairman of the board of supervisors, and Supervisor LeRoy Lyon are leaving tonight for Washington, D. C., in connection with this county's application for federal aid in financing its $11,600,000 flood control program.

The two supervisors had not planned to leave until tomorrow because of other business affairs, but changed their plans late yesterday upon receipt of a telegram from A. Kempkey, consulting engineer sent back to the capitol several weeks ago by the county supervisors.

In the telegram Mr. Kempkey declared it is imperative that the supervisors be in Washington by August 21. Mr. Mitchell and Mr. Lyon will arrive at their destination August 20 in time for a conference with Mr. Kempkey before appearing before government officials in regard to the project.

Mr. Mitchell said today he intends to remain in Washington until some definite word is given this county by federal officials as to the extent of financial assistance the county can expect for its project.

Originally filed under Public Works administration seeking a loan and grant, the application for aid was switched to the board of army engineers when the supervisors became convinced that greater benefits would accrue to the county through the change. Under the present application the county is asking the government to make an outward grant of approximately $7,000,000 for the project. The county will raise the balance through a bond issue.

If the grant is made through the board of army engineers the work of constructing dams and spreading grounds will be done under supervision of army engineers.

During the absence of Mr. Mitchell activities of the board of supervisors will be directed by Willard Smith, supervisor from the fourth district. Mr. Smith was appointed acting chairman of the board by Mr. Mitchell today.

DOCTOR WHO TOOK CHARGE OF BODIES FOUGHT EPIDEMIC

SEATTLE, Aug. 16. (AP)—Dr. Henry W. Griest, who took charge of the bodies of Wiley Post, round the world flier, and Will Rogers, famous actor-writer-humorist, broke into the news early this year when he played a prominent part in fighting a severe epidemic of influenza in Alaska.

Dr. Griest, of the Presbyterian hospital in Point Barrow, Alaska, where the bodies of the two celebrities were removed, has a son, Elwood C. Griest, scout executive for Ventura county, California.

Pause In Death Flight

Wiley Post and Will Rogers, killed in the crash of Post's new monoplane near Point Barrow, Alaska, today, are shown here when they landed at Juneau, Alaska on one of the laps of their fatal trip. "We're just going somewhere" was all the information the famed pair would give to inquiries about their destination.

ROGERS WAS JUST KINDLY NEIGHBOR AT RANCH HOME

PACIFIC PALISADES, Calif., Aug. 16. (AP)—Will Rogers was a kindly neighbor to those who knew him best in the environment of his home, an ideal ranch in the Santa Monica mountains here.

He was an early riser. Every morning at 5 o'clock he was up taking care of his ponies and his goats the first thing. Hollywood always regarded him as the earliest riser in the movie industry.

To his friends he was just Will. Perhaps those who knew him best were the folk of the Uplifters' ranch, which maintains a polo field here, just across the road from the entrance to his ranch home.

His latchstring was out to his friends. His intimates knew where he kept the key to the ranch gate, in a notched hole on one side of the gatepost.

Easy Going

His ranch home was as unpretentious as his dress, in fact in keeping with his home easy-going life.

He would read all the morning papers before breakfast, and scatter them all over the house.

Rogers disliked interviews, but was always ready to talk on homely subjects.

Speaking with a drawl, he always saw the humorous side of everything.

Polo long was regarded as his most cherished pastime. Yet while his love of horses was the most predominant thing, next to his love of his family that was seen by his neighbors, aviation in late years seemed to share his passion.

Time after time he told his friends that his "best quips" were written in the air."

Of recent years he never would take a train or boat, if an airplane was available.

Piloted by Frank Hawks he made an aerial tour of the territory affected by the Mississippi flood in 1931 in the interest of the sufferers.

Since that time he seemed to want to fly anywhere there was anything interesting happening.

Friend of Lindy's

He was a warm friend of the Lindbergh's. Both the Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh visited him many times and in their hours of suffering following the kidnaping of their child they were guests at his ranch, secluded from all visitors.

His only pets were horses, mostly polo ponies.

Despite his fortune, Rogers was a most frugal liver. His clothing testified to that. In fact he often remarked that it cost him more for newspapers in a year than for clothes.

It was long ago that a friend suggested the possibility of danger in air flights.

Chewing gum, Rogers paused, smiled and commented that he bore a charmed life, and expected to live to be "at least 100 years old."

MORE ABOUT ROGERS, POST

Post's Plane Was New One

Post's plane was a new one, built in Burbank, Calif., for the flight to Siberia. It was a specially built model of low wing construction similar to the ship used by Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh on their flights to Japan in 1931 and across the Atlantic air routes in 1933.

Flown to Seattle as a land plane, the ship was fitted with pontoons here.

Post arrived here from the South on August 1, accompanied by Mrs. Post, who had planned to make a Siberian trip with her husband. He said at that time he planned to go on to Moscow, after "hunting tigers" in Siberia.

While here, delayed for several days, the Russian fliers hopped from Moscow on their projected flight over the North Pole to California and Post showed great interest in their flight. He predicted that it would be successful, although subsequently they were compelled to turn back and return to Russia.

Rogers Joined Pair August 5

Rogers, freed from his moving picture work for a time, then flew North and joined them here on August 5. He left Los Angeles under an "assumed name" but his identity was soon discovered and he was welcomed here.

On the next day, the two took test flights in Post's plane, which had by then been equipped with pontoons, and Rogers also found time for a polo workout with polo players here. He was their guest that evening and told them, among other things, that he was going north to "get a polo team going on the Matanuska project," as that was about the "only thing the democrats haven't done for the colony."

That evening, friends disclosed later, Rogers "kidded" Mrs. Post about the hunting and fishing they planned on isolated Alaskan lakes, saying it was "no place for a lady." The "kidding," in which Post joined, finally convinced Mrs. Post not to make the trip with them.

Consequently, the next morning, Aug. 7, when the two hopped from the Renton airport on Lake Washington, south of here, Mrs. Post was left behind. She said the trip might be "too strenuous."

Mrs. Post Flies to S. F.

She remained here only a few days, and then flew south in a private plane to San Francisco.

Post and Rogers made a leisurely flight of eight hours, 15 minutes, that day to Juneau, not stopping at Ketchikan, although before leaving here Rogers had said he might have to "get a fish dinner at Ketchikan." Rain and low-flying clouds lay along the route they traversed, but they arrived safely at the territory's capital.

Governor John W. Troy of Alaska, and Joe Crosson, a hunting companion last year of Post's, welcomed the two on their arrival at Juneau.

Weather Wet

They were the governor's guests that night at the territorial mansion. The next day, it was still raining and their flight, which by now had become a "vacation trip," they said, was delayed. Rogers brought rubbers, two raincoats and other equipment, saying humorously, "With this weather, I'll need lots of them."

Within a few days, they hopped again over into the historic Klondike gold territory, at Dawson, Y. T., and even there found themselves the objects of much attention. Miners and prospectors came miles to see them.

Within two days they took off again, their destination unannounced as usual, and they turned up at Aklavik, N. W. T., at the mouth of the Mackenzie river, on the Arctic.

40 Degrees Above

Rogers commented in one of his pert dispatches that the Eskimos there were "thicker than rich men at a save-the-constitution convention." He also found it cold. It was 40 above zero. Their stay was short.

A flight back to interior Alaska, to Fairbanks, followed, and then in a commercial plane they flew south to Anchorage and over to the Matanuska project.

"Pioneering for spinach is different than pioneering for gold," said Rogers, but his other comment was fovorable. "I didn't see any mosquitos there," he said.

They returned to Fairbanks, where their plane had been serviced, and then took off for Point Barrow yesterday.

WIFE MISSES DEATH

MORE ABOUT COMMENT

He was a brilliant and intrepid flier."

Mayor Frank S. Shaw, of Los Angeles, here on business, said: "I was with Will only two weeks ago. No words I could say now would completely express my sorrow."

"Oklahoma has lost its two greatest sons," said Representative Will Rogers of that state. He recalled the humorist's indorsement had helped put him in congress.

'Had Great Genius'

Representative Boland of Pennsylvania said "no one realized Rogers' genius for judging current events" better than members of congress.

Speaker Byrns said he had a premonition that trouble would come to Will Rogers on the Alaskan flight.

"When I read he was going on that long trip," he said, "I told my wife 'I wish Will Rogers wouldn't do that.'

"I said he was liable to get killed."

Senator McAdoo, who knew Rogers as a fellow Californian, said "his loss will be felt by untold millions."

FILM LEADERS, STARS SORROW FOR ROGERS

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 16. (AP)—The movie capital was stunned and saddened by the news from Alaska of the sudden airplane death of Will Rogers and Wiley Post.

Darryl L. Zanuck, vice president of the Twentieth Century Fox films in charge of production, was too choked with emotion to comment, when he was first told of the tragedy.

George Marshall, director of Rogers in pictures, said:

"People will say Rogers' death is a loss to the country. That's true—but it's a bigger loss to those who worked with him. He was a great man, but so human that everyone who worked with him loved him."

Rochelle Hudson, featured in some of Rogers' pictures: "His death is a great blow to me. He was one of the grandest people I ever knew."

'Lost Best Friend'

Ronald Colman: "I feel humanity has lost its best and most loved friend in Rogers, and aviation one of its greatest figures in history."

Sol M. Wurtzel: "We must take comfort in the fact that the good Rogers did will live on."

Warner Oland: "Rogers belonged to the world."

'He Saw Future'

Charles N. (Jimmy) James, who flew Rogers on the first Western Air Express mail trip between Los Angeles and Sale Lake City: "He saw the future of transport flying in this country and often told us he intended to help it as much as possible. He used to write kidding notes to us in the front cockpit, and often wrote his column while flying."

Mrs. Post Prostrated; Lindy Helps Wives of Two Victims

PONCA CITY, Okla., Aug. 16. (AP)—When advised of the news of her husband's death in Alaska, Mrs. Wiley Post, staying at the L. A. Gray home here, was prostrated with grief. Mr. Post at first planned to make the northern trip with her husband but returned here for an operation.

Mrs. Post slipped quietly into Ponca City a day or so ago, seeking to escape publicity attending the flight.

LINDY READY TO HELP WIVES OF PAIR

NEW YORK, Aug. 16. (AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and officials of the Pan-American Airways system here have been instructed by Mrs. Will Rogers to fly the body of her husband from Point Barrow, Alaska, to Juneau, it was learned today.

Colonel Lindbergh and the Alaskan service of the Airways company had been in touch with Mrs. Rogers and Mrs. Wiley Post offering their facilities and aid.

POST'S WINNIE MAE SITS ALONE IN HANGAR

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 16. (AP)—A snub-nosed airplane, world-weary veteran of thousands of miles of flying service and wearer of aviation's highest laurels, sat dejectedly in an airport here today.

It was the Winnie Mae, the sturdy little ship in which Wiley Post flew to world renown. Post put the Winnie Mae on the "retired list" several months ago.

CLAREMORE CLOSES UP AT NEWS OF CRASH

CLAREMORE, Okla., Aug. 16. (AP)—This Oklahoma resort town, made famous by its first citizen, Will Rogers, suspended business today when word of the death of the humorist was received.

Knots of people collected on streets, talking about nothing but the death of their beloved Bill.

ROGERS SECOND TO LINDY AS AIR BACKER

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 16. (AP)—Will Rogers was considered here as second only to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh as an influence in making this country "air-minded."

In the past five years, Rogers made about 20 round trips on Transcontinental & Western Air lines, traffic officials of the corporations said here today.

One aviation authority here expressed belief that Rogers had flown at least 1,000,000 miles as a passenger — perhaps more than any other passenger in the world.

MRS. POST WANTED WILEY 'COMFORTABLE'

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 16. (AP) Mrs. Wiley Post, wife of the round-the-world flier, was possibly spared the fate of her husband and Will Rogers because she wanted them to be "comfortable," it was recalled here today.

"I wanted Wiley to be more comfortable," she had said. "And besides, they are other reasons."

The "other reasons" evidently included an operation, which was to be performed in Ponca City, reports from there said.

POST SAW FUTURE IN HIGH FLYING

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 16. (AP)—With four unsuccessful cross country stratosphere flight behind him, Wiley Post went to his death today convinced that the future of aviation lies in the upper reaches of the sky.

Four times the daring 'round-the-world flier hopped away from Union Air terminal at Burbank in his famous plane, the Winnie Mae, attempting to span the continent in less than nine hours at altitudes ranging above 32,500 feet. Each time mishap met his efforts.

DREDGING HALT CHECKMATED

Efforts by trustees of the defunct Newport Land company to halt dredging operations near Collins island in Newport harbor were checkmated today, at least temporarily.

Late yesterday Federal Judge Paul J. McCormick of Los Angeles issued a temporary restraining order which forbids state courts from interfering with the dredging project, according to an Associated Press report.

A permanent injunction to halt efforts of the trustees to block dredging operations will be sought in the federal court at Los Angeles next Thursday.

Trustees of the Newport Land company claim title to 50 acres of sub-surface land included in the channel route and are seeking to tie up dredging work until land values are adjudicated. They have asked damages for land assertedly dredged away already.

WANT TO BE 'PEER'? COSTS $3 A WEEK

MITCHELLS, S. D., Aug. 16. (AP)—It costs just $3 a week to become a peer of the realm—and the peer must work.

At the Dakota Wesleyan university here, 10 students have opened their own dormitory. They call it the "house of lords," with a weekly residence fee of $3—and some work.

Lords of the kitchen, commonly called cooks, number three, while scullery lordlings, usually referred to as bottle washers, take up four more of the house. The rest are lords of the chamber.

Hagiography is that branch of learning which has the saints and their worship for its object.

GOAL OF AAA 'UNCHANGED' SAYS HEAD

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16. (AP)—Secretary Wallace leaned forward over his desk today, hands gripping tightly the arms of his chair, and declared emphatically that the AAA "has not and will not change its goal."

"The concept from the beginning," Wallace said, "has been to produce a normal supply per capita for the American consumer and not to produce a surplus for a foreign market which has been lost."

A change in plans for the 1936 wheat control program, announced Wednesday, was not an "about-face" for the AAA, Wallace said. The farm administration announced that the wheat acreage reduction to be required of contract signers next year will be five per cent.

A 15 per cent reduction has been announced two weeks ago, but that was before the crop report released Aug. 9 which indicated that black rust and heat had caused a loss of 123,000,000 bushels in the 1935 wheat crop during the month of July.

"It's the hardest thing in the world," Wallace said, "to get people in the cities to realize that weather changes, and that these weather changes affect farm plans."

Referring to complaint about higher prices of hogs and pork, Wallace smiled and said, "the price of hogs isn't so far out of line."

He said that in 1932 and 1933, prices of hogs were down to about one-third of parity, or what the AAA terms fair exchange value. This condition, he said, "was worse than five cent cotton."

The new amendments to the Agricultural Adjustment act, passed late yesterday, Wallace said, will permit increased "adjustment" of production by permitting benefit payments for increased production. Previously, benefit payments could be made only for crop reductions.

MOTHER'S PRIDE IS TRAGIC!

Causes Suicide Of Daughter

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 16. (AP)—A mixture of pride and shame today had brought sorrow to Mrs. Adeline Shorb, former society woman and descendant of an old Los Angeles family.

Convicted of signing a fictitious name to a relief check, Mrs. Shorb spent 12 days in jail. She hid her true identity while serving the term. One day friends brought a letter from her daughter, Mrs. William Austin Callahan, the former Yorba Shorb, in San Francisco.

The mother read it—and continued to keep secret her presence in jail.

"I didn't take the letter seriously enough," she said.

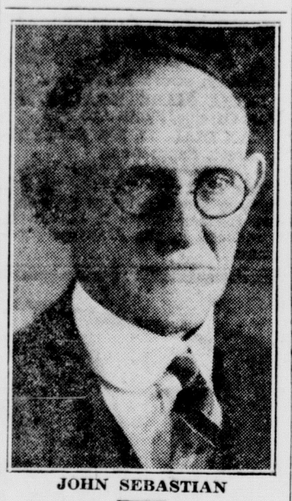

Last Monday her daughter committed suicide.

TO DECIDE SHIP'S FATE

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 16. (AP) With 17 vessels tied up in Pacific coast ports by labor disputes today, waterfront employers of the West coast laid plans to hold a conference here Monday to decide what steps shall be taken to free the ships.

The first Greek letter sorority, Kappa Alpha Theta, was founded at De Pauw university in 1870.

PHOTOS RETELL CITY HISTORY

JOHN SEBASTIAN

Sebastian's shoe store at 108 East Fourth street, this week has been holding an old-time value-giving event. The occasion is in the nature of an anniversary, celebrating the completion of 30 years in business in Santa Ana.

In 1905, John Sebastian came to Santa Ana from Vernon, Tex., and started business as a shoe merchant. During his 30 years in Santa Ana he has watched the town grow from the ugly duckling stage to its present beautiful proportions. Mr. Sebastian still is actively interested in the store, although the concern is under the William J. Sebastian.

During the past few days, Mr. Sebastian has had on display in the store's windows, old-time photographs from the collections of Frank D. Leonard and Walter Fine, pioneer Santa Anans. Some of them were taken in 1892 for exhibition purposes at the World's fair in Chicago. In all, there are over 100 pictures on display in Sebastian's windows.

One of them is a picture of the old race track which was located at Bristol and Edinger streets. In this picture there are three old-time automobiles, all primed and ready to hurtle the drivers over the ground at the terrific speed of nearly 40 miles an hour. Another picture shows a harness shop, located at the site of the present city hall. In the background is a group of shacks, which comprised Santa Ana's Chinatown. Some time after this picture was taken, all of the old shacks were condemned by the city and burned.

Mr. Sebastian announced today that the pictures would be removed from the windows next Monday, and invited all who are interested in the old time scenes to avail themselves of this opportunity to see them.

Flashes Of Life

SHE DODGED A BEE

WALLACE, Idaho.—Mrs. A. H. Miller of Wallace sat in her car perched squarely atop a stump of a tree and contemplated the might of a honey bee.

Mrs. Miller loosed the steering wheel of her car for a moment when the bee entered the machine. A moment later the car was balanced on the stump 30 feet off the highway.

PIONEER

DENVER, Colo.—Dr. J. D. Figgins finished patting clay onto the bones of his new pet and pronounced him the daddy of all American pioneers.

The "Pet" is "Homo Novismundus," or "New world man," who was reconstructed from fossilized remains by Dr. Figgins at the Colorado Museum of Natural History.

"Homo Novismundus" was dug up seven months ago in northern New Mexico. Dr. Figgins said he undoubtedly was the "most primitive man discovered on this continent," but declined to estimate his age.

Pension Queries Referred to State Directors

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16. (AP)—Mail bags are bringing to Washington daily an increasing flow of inquiries from needy persons over 65 years, asking to what benefits they are entitled under the new social security law. They wonder how and where to apply for federal aid.

The answer is brief—they must apply to the old-age pension commissions of their own states.

If their state has no provision for granting old age pensions then applicants must wait until necessary state legislation is passed. If any state's constitution prohibits such legislation, then applicants of that state may apply to county authorities until July 1, 1937.

Federal funds up to $15 a month per person are to be available for the needy aged, provided the states match the payments.

BAN MILK LAW

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 16. (AP)—The city today had been restrained by a federal court order from enforcing its new daylight milk delivery ordinance. An injunction was issued yesterday at the request of several dairy companies until the case can be tried on its merits.

ITALY WANTS PACK MULES

Shortage of Animals Told

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., Aug. 16. (AP)—purchase of 2,000 American pack mules by Italy, presumably in event of a war with Ethiopia, would create a serious shortage of the animals for domestic use, dealers here said today.

Inquiry on the price of that number of animals was made by Italian dealers last week at this market, international center of horse and mule trade.

J. J. Searcy, president of the St. Louis Horse and Mule Commission company, said there was a scarcity of the type of mule wanted—a short, sturdy, heavy-boned jack able to carry heavy burdens over precarious mountain trails.

"We could sell all those now available in the domestic market," he said, "particularly in the south, where the smaller animals are used."

Last year's drought and a tendency of farmers to quit raising mules because of the increased use of tractors have created a shortage with a resultant boom market. Searcy estimated prices, higher now than at any time in the last two decades, have risen 40 per cent in the last 18 months. Today's quotations list a top price of $160 for average mules. Outstanding animals fetch considerably higher, but specific prices are not stated.

'CITY OF LAKES' FINDS ANOTHER

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 16. (AP)—Minneapolis, known as the city of lakes, has re-discovered still another.

Old "Hoag lake," once extending into the city's present business section, had been filled in and all but forgotten—until a garage company recently let a contract for the sinking of two 17,000-gallon gasoline storage tanks.

Then things happened. Four contracting companies in succession gave up the task when water rushed in and inundated steam shovels.

An old-fashioned "bucket brigade" was put to work, and workmen are completing by hand the job steam shovels couldn't handle.

TEXAS PANHANDLE IN SNORE CONTEST

AMARILLO, Tex., Aug. 16. (AP) Gene Howe, Amarillo editor and columnist, has started a snoring contest.

Writing his daily column as "The Tactless Texan," Howe announced he would award $100 in cash prizes to the champion snorers of the Texas Panhandle.

Women will be barred "as the best of them are mere amateurs compared to the men."

Howe started the contest because "the weather is hot and people are sort of droopy and I've got to do something to keep up interest in this department of the paper."

PORTER HOME ON BLOCK

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 16. (AP)—The picturesque old home of Gene Stratton Porter, the authoress, is to be sold at auction next week, Mrs. Jeanette Porter Meehan, daughter of the famed novelist, announced.

800 MILLIONS FOR DEFENSE IN 1936

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16. (AP)—Aiming at a bigger and better army and navy in 1936, the government will spend on the two services a sum equivalent to about $6.35 for each man, woman and child in the country.

Revised figures, including military funds in the second deficiency bill, increase total appropriations for national defense by the present congress to $806,446,829. Of this $458,684,379 goes to the navy, and $347,762,450 to the army.

The navy's 1936 appropriations are an increase of $174,000,000 over 1935, while the army is getting $97,000,000 more than last year.

Army Gets More Men

Analysis of the appropriations show that for the increased expenditure of approximately $271,000,000, the army and navy will get more men, more airplanes, more warships and some new equipment.

Nearly $121,000,000 has been allotted for continuing construction of 62 vessels now being built, and laying keels of 24 more warships. About $23,000,000 has been earmarked for beginning work on 15 destroyers, five submarines, two light cruisers and one aircraft carrier.

$26,700,000 For Planes

To buy new planes the navy got $26,700,000—an increase of $20,500,000 over last year.

Officers said the remainder of the navy's increase will be absorbed by enlistment of 10,000 more "gobs"—an increasing man power to 92,500—and in higher prices for most everything the navy eats, wears, uses or does.

Airdrome At Hawaii

The army's appropriation this year was $336,112,450, but the second deficiency bill added $9,850,000 for new buildings at West Point and an airdrome in Hawaii, and $1,800,000 for increased cost of the doughboys' "three squares" a day.

The army's $97,000,000 increase will be absorbed by these expenditures, among others: $20,000,000 to increase its size from 118,750 men to 165,000; $20,000,000 to restore economy pay cuts; $18,000,000 more for plane purchases (however, officers said that because of increased cost of materials and labor, this sum will give the air corps only about the same number of planes); $7,000,000 for mechanization and modernization of old equipment; $6,000,000 for restoring armory drills and providing new equipment to national guard, and larger funds for expanding activities of auxiliary organizations.

MATE'S BIRTHDAY IS WIFE'S 'SECRET'

AUSTIN, Tex., Aug. 16. (AP)—Clyde Smith, assistant secretary of state, can't reveal his age.

His wife, who also works in the state department, was born on the same day in the same year.

By revealing his birthday, Smith exposes that of his wife.

So Mrs. Smith has "forbidden" her husband to "tell."

BOUNDARY LINE SQUABBLE ON

RIVERSIDE, Aug. 16. (AP)—Now that the Colorado river has been harnessed by Boulder dam, Riverside county officials would like to settle the question of the Arizona-California boundary line.

For years it has been a moving line, as the river shifted back and forth. Property owners were doubtful from one year to the next whether their land would be in Arizona or California.

It being desert land, the question did not assume great importance, but with the river under control, and the rich soil offering possibility of intensive development, the boundary line question has attracted attention of the county board of supervisors.

Three counties in California are affected, there being 70 miles in San Bernardino county, 50 miles in Riverside county, and 65 miles in Imperial county along the boundary line.

The Rancho Colorado, owners of 9000 acres of overflow lands along the California side in Riverside county, started the move to have the supervisors ask the two states to fix a definite boundary line.

Willows and other low trees now cover this riverbed section, the soil being extremely rich from silt washed down before Boulder dam was built.

District Attorney Earl Redwine is seeking to determine a procedure to get the issue before the two states. He believes that a two-state survey should be made, involving possible trading of lands to fix a permanent boundary. The river's basin is several miles wide along most of the course from Needles, in San Bernardino county, south.

Here's How New Federal Pension Plan Is to Work in Two Separate Cases

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16. (AP)—This is what the old-age annuity section of the social security bill, signed Wednesday by the President, would do to and for the twin Doe brothers:

The two—John and Jim—will be 30 on January 1, 1937, the date that section becomes operative. Both have jobs paying them $200 a month.

In 1937, 1938 and 1939, they will pay a 1 per cent tax on their salaries—a total of $72 each for the three years. After that the rate increases gradually to a maximum of 3 per cent beginning in 1949.

John Doe keeps his job and continues to make an average of $200 a month until he reaches 65. At that age, he has paid $1,152 to the government, and his employer has paid a like amount. John is entitled to a monthly pension of $66.25.

Worked Only 20 Years

His brother Jim, however, has not been so fortunate. He remained employed only 20 of the 35 years. In those 20 years, taxes were paid on $48,000 of income.

When he reaches 65, though, he gets a pension just the same. The amount is arrived at this way: he is entitled to a monthly pension of one-half of 1 per cent of the first $3,000 of his total salary plus one-twelfth of 1 per cent of the remainder—a pension of $15 plus $37.50, or a total of $52.50 each month.

The monthly pensions to both continue until their deaths. This is what happens when they die:

Should Get $2,940

Taxes have been paid for John—the one who worked the full 35 years—on $4,000. The bill states that he is entitled, therefore, to benefits totalling $2,940. If at the time of his death the total monthly pension payments to him add to more than that amount, his heirs get nothing. If they add to less, his heirs get the balance.

For Jim, however, taxes have been paid only on $48,000. Therefore, he is entitled to pension benefits totalling 3½ per cent of that amount, or $1,680. If his pension payments total less than that, his heirs get the balance; if they total more, the heirs get nothing.

Under the system, the smallest possible benefit is a lump sum payment of $52.50 to a person who paid taxes for 5 years on a $25-a-month salary. The biggest is an $85 pension to an individual who earns $250 a month for 45 years.

CORN-HOG BILL IS $17,298,066

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16. (AP)—The farm administration has announced that $17,298,066 has been paid on 1935 corn-hog contracts. More than one-fourth of the total—$4,760,269—went to Iowa farmers.

The payments represent about one-fifth of the $85,000,000 which will be disbursed to farmers as first payments under this year's corn-hog program.

The payments to states included: California $127,761.

FIVE PROJECTS APPROVED

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 16. (AP)—Five projects of the huge Colorado river aqueduct had been approved today. The five are the Cajelco dam and reservoir, south of Riverside; San Rafael tunnels Nos. 1 and 2, north of Eagle Rock; the Sierra Madre tunnel under the city of Sierra Madre; and Monrovia tunnel No. 4, east of Pasadena.

Talks to Parents

By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH

Slander

Much gossip is comparatively idle and harmless. If it were not, the average town would be a collection of individuals each one at loggerheads with all the others, and reputations would all be in shreds.

The great majority of people hearing malicious comments about their friends or even their enemies, discount the statements or disregard them entirely; furthermore, society has learned to be careful in what it says one about another, since a comeback, and probably an unpleasant one, is always possible.

Few Limitations

But when it comes to spreading rumors about children, and especially girls and boys in their teens, there are few if any limitations to what people can and will say. They seem to feel that it does not matter. If they think at all of the consequences, they suppose that the child will outgrow it or live it down.

More than one girl or boy, living in a small community, has either left town to get a new start among strange faces, or has given up the fight and become what he was credited with being. Give a boy a bad name and you might as well hang him.

Knows Too Much

Mrs. X tells Mrs. Y that Mary is not a good influence for the other children. She knows too much, and is too frank. "Really, someone ought to speak to her mother." Mrs. Y has a child of her own who is Mary's closest friend. Instead of speaking to Mary's mother or looking into the matter herself she breaks up the children's friendship.

Mary never knows why. She is probably no different from other girls, only a little less reserved. Gradually she is pushed out of the group and, bewildered and unhappy, thrown on her own resources. She has no defense, no chance to answer her accusers. Mrs. X may be a well-meaning woman, but her tongue was far more dangerous than Mary's.

Feeling Well Today?

By DR. IAGO GALDSTON

Effects of Hot Climate

Although one often hears that "it isn't the heat, it's the humidity," high temperatures as such have certain taxing effects upon the body which, if not counteracted, may lead of dissatrous results.

The body has a variety of means for keeping its internal temperature at a given level. Among these, the secretion of sweat and the control of blood flow through the skin by dilatation (i. e., enlarging of its numerous small blood vessels called the capillaries) are the most effective.

Can Increase Heat

The body can increase its heat loss by dilating, that is, by relaxing and thus enlarging the blood vessels of the skin. This has the effect of bringing much of the body's blood to "the surface," with consequent increase in the amount of body heat lost by radiation.

But the dilation of the skin blood vessels actually involves an increase in the blood volume of the body. This increase in blood volume is accomplished by drawing into circulation water stored in other tissues.

In this connection the value of drinking sufficient amounts of water becomes self-evident, for if the body is dehydrated, that is, without sufficient water, it is handicapped in loss of heat by radiation. But, if water is to be drunk in adequate amounts, we must not forget the importance of adding extra salt to our meals and at times, too, to our water.

Perspiration Good

Even more important than the loss of heat by radiation is the cooling effect of perspiration. In fact, when the temperature of the surrounding air is higher than the body temperature, perspiration is practically the only way in which the body may rid itself of excess heat.

Perspiration, too, is promoted by drinking adequate amounts of water, and there, too, the intake of salt must be sufficient. Sweat is salty, and therefore the sodium chloride which the body loses through perspiration must be made up in our food.

OIL BUSINESS SHOWS GAIN IN STATE

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 16. (AP) California oil companies are making money at a rate averaging considerably above that of a year ago.

More stable market conditions, with some increase in consumption, account for the more gratifying results as stockholders view the situation.

Total net earnings of the first six oil companies to report among those listed on the San Francisco Stock Exchange were $24,401,474 for the first half of this year, after all charges.

The figure was almost double that of last year, when the aggregate net was $12,626,648.

This general improvement came chiefly from higher gasoline prices. One oil company executive summed it up this way:

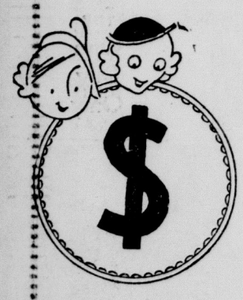

"A year ago we had about six months of gasoline price war—this year the Pacific Coast Petroleum agency was operating and their was little market disturbance. Of course that is not the whole picture, but there you have the principal part of it."

The Southern California price war broke in on the industry's peace again this year, after the collapse of the NRA, and cut down profits in June on the gallonage of gasoline sold, but boosted the quantity sold.

While the war was generally confined to the vicinity of Los Angeles, that area's sales are of great importance to the coast companies. The companies have been working on stabilization plans along the line of old agency agreement, but thus far no working plan has been announced.

RIGHT TO END ONE'S OWN LIFE IS DEFENDED BY WOMAN

Editor, The Journal:

Saturdays' issue of The Journal carried an interesting argument in favor of decent suicide. The article appeared under the heading "One Man's Opinion" and was written by Duncan Ellsworth.

Mr. Ellsworth's stand was well taken and I agree with him. If a despairing person feels the uncontrollable urge to quit this life he should be able to do so neatly, decently and quietly. But how many potential suicides would choose this method? The object of suicide seems to be bodily destruction, and the unbalanced mind of the self-destroyer dictates actual destruction of the body. The passing of the soul, spirit or whatever you choose to call that thing in all of us that passes on when the body is useless, seldom enters the thought of the suicidally inclined. Their one object is to crush, smash and literally destroy their physical self. Because few suicides are sane acts, few self-destroyers would choose a sane and sensible means of leaving this earth.

Loss in some form is behind every act of suicide. Loss of love, health, money, honor, position and respect are contributing factors in the desire to die. Every child who threatens to run away is a potential suicide. The temporary and natural mistakes of childhood assume magnified proportions in the child mind. He just can't face living in his present surroundings. Nobody loves him; he failed in spelling; he broke a window and that will cost his dad money; he has done something that, in his young mind, is beyond remedy, and he wants to get away from it all. Adults know there is no benefit in physically running away. They choose a more definite means of departure and, in black despair, destroy their bodies.

Man has no right to dictate to man what he should and should not do with his physical self. Man should, however, keep the laws of God and He did not create us for a useless life. Man was not made in the perfect image of God for no cause. Man must keep his physical body until, by trial, he has completed the reason for his being.

But that thought would have no effect on one desiring death. Rather than legalize a sane and decent method of self destruction we should turn our efforts to eliminate the cause. Public schools from the primary grades through high school, should have regular lessons in philosophy. We need to go through trying experiences in order to learn. No human should suffer physically through unnecessary hunger, pain or cold but each mistake we make must be rectified and the courage to "face the music" is a necessary part in the character building process that must be accomplished.

Through trained teachers children should be taught that there is no futility, and despair is merely a form of spiritual growth. The psychological reasons behind despair, shame and self pity should be carefully analyzed and eliminated. Train the minds of our children from infancy and all violent deaths will be avoided.

We are a long way from true civilization. With our intelligence we invent and perfect mechanical means of conveyance. With our lack of intelligence we destroy man in automobile accidents, sea disasters and airplane crashes. Greedy, childish minds provoke warfare and the attendant mass murders. Intelligence has taught us the benefits of birth control—stupidity is responsible for the high rate of deaths through childbirth.

Perhaps the majority of these horrors is beyond our control in our present undeveloped state. At any rate, we might at least make an effort to prevent suicide. Lack of concentration seems to be the chief cause of our mistakes.

Why don't — why CAN'T — we think? MILDRED O. PAYN.

YOUTH BUILDS MIDGET CAR

Santa Anan Creates Machine

By PAUL WRIGHT

Out of the backyard workshop of Everett Hurd, 18-year-old redhead in his senior year at Santa Ana High school, has come a standard-sized midget racer—decorated in white and black, and truly a thing of mechanical beauty.

More than 500 of the industrious youth's after-school hours have been spent in perfecting the machine, which receives its first official test when young Hurd and his father, Charles B. Hurd, take the car to the Atlantic speedway in Los Angeles next Tuesday night.

The beautifully-constructed midget, appearing like a factory model, consists of parts which the talented boy has manufactured in a welding and forging class at high school, and from parts which he has salvaged from other automobiles and re-shaped in the diminutive workshop in back of his residence at 1326 French street, Santa Ana.

And It's a Radiator

He obtained an odd-shaped gasoline tank from an expensive stock car, cut it in half, chiseled out a fancy open design on each side of the front, painted it black, and the finished product was a radiator suitable for the classiest of racers. He shaped an attractive sheet metal iron hood and body to fit a reconstructed Model T frame. He built a special exhaust pipe, and attached it to a Saxon motor sporting a complicated little radiator which he also built.

All of this work, not to mention his efforts in designing new axles, steering appartus, and a four and a half gallon gas tank, has produced something of which any boy would be proud.

Young Hurd will drive his new creation in the Los Angeles races next week. Like all amateurs, he will be entered in the five-lap consolation events. By making an impression on the judges, he will be awarded his license after a brief training period, and will join the Southern California midget racing association which conducts programs in Los Angeles, Long Beach and San Diego.

Midget racing, introduced in the Southland two years ago, began to thrive last season, and weekly programs were brought to the Municipal bowl by the Santa Ana American Legion. Young Hurd served as a push-car boy for the champions—Bill Betteridge, Curly Mills and some of the others. While in the pit he picked up many pointers on how to construct his own motor.

With the present gear ratio, the young mechanic believes his car will do about 60 miles per hour.

Everett comes by his mechanical talents naturally. His father, a building contractor, can take a piece of wood and do wonders with it. He has carved a three-quarter bass fiddle and a banjo that looked factory-made. Among other things he has manufactured a grandfather clock, and several electric lamps with spinning-wheel designs. Mr. Hurd's elder son, Orville, built a cedar chest and buffet while in high school.

Everett is a member of the Engineering club at Santa Ana High school, whre he has received many helpful suggestions from Instructors Byron Quivey and Charles Tibbetts. He had his midget auto on display at a recent banquet of the Engineers in the First Christian church.

FOUR GIVEN LIFE FOR KILLING MAN

DETROIT, Aug. 16. (AP)—The four convicted slayers of Howard Carter Dickinson stood before Judge John A. Boyne in a packed courtroom late yesterday and were sentenced to life imprisonment.

There was no demonstration as the sentences were imposed on William Lee Ferris, and the three burlesque house dancers who were with him when the New York attorney was shot to death and robbed of $134 the night of June 25 in Rouge park here.

The women, Loretta Jackson, her sister, Florence, and Jean Miller, were silent as they were sentenced to spend the remainder of their lives in the Detroit house of correction.

The body of Poland's Marshal Josef Pilsudski was buried in the cathedral attached to the royal castle at Cracow.

The sassafras, a North American tree of the laurel family with aromatic bark and foliage, also is called the ague-tree.

NEW COMPLAINT PUTS CONVICTED MAN BACK IN JAIL

Scheduled for deportation to Norway last Saturday as one of the terms of his probation on charges of second degree robbery, Didrik Mustad is back in the county jail under $1000 bond pending his arraignment in superior court on a charge of possession of firearms by an alien.

The new complaint was filed against Mustad by the district attorney's office after his sailing had been delayed. Mustad was arraigned Wednesday before Justice of the Peace A. W. Swayze in Orange and bound over to superior court.

The new charge grew out of the holdup and robbery of W. D. Page and his brother, O. F. D. Page, in the Orange home of the former.

New Dollar Bill, More Attractive Being Designed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16. (AP)—A new one dollar silver certificate—just a one dollar bill to you—is being designed for the treasury.

Officials said today its appearance would be more attractive than the one now in use.

The great seal of the United States will be placed on its back. The front will look about the same.

The new bill will continue to be worth 100 cents.

Texas plans to have 2,500,000 trees ready for planting next spring on a 320-mile shelter belt designed to reduce wind erosion.

SUNDOWN STORIES

DOING TRICKS

By Mary Graham Bonner

The cat had disappeared as quickly as he had appeared. The magician laughed at the surprise of the duck and crow and Willy Nilly.

"I've been practicing a great many new tricks and brushing up on some of the old ones," said the magician. "I'm leaving this house within a short time to go on a world tour. I've sold the place and I'm getting ready to go now, packing slowly so as not to be too much rushed."

"I suppose you couldn't do me another favor?" asked Willy Nilly.

"I haven't done you any favor at all," replied the magician. "I'm afraid you'll have to have some treatment that is other than a trick for your ears."

Give a Show?

"Yes," agreed Willy Nilly. "I'll start in using the adhesive tape again. But I wondered if you wouldn't come over with me to Puddle Muddle and give a show, like a dress rehearsal, for my animal friends?

"We've got to have many important visitors in Puddle Muddle, and I could drive you over there in my automobile Two-Ways."

"That would be splendid," the magician replied. "I'd like to go over all my tricks once before I leave, and there is nothing like an audience. I'll come at once."

So they all got into the automobile Two-Ways and back they started for Puddle Muddle.

And on the way over the magician did trick after trick for them.

Wouldn't Tell

But he would not tell how these were done. "I'm not a magician if I don't surprise and amaze people" he said.

Now they were arriving in Puddle Muddle. "Do the ear trick first," Willy Nilly, whispered.

BOWL CARVED FROM STONE

Perfect Dish Given Museum

A perfectly formed Indian storage bowl, carved out of a solid piece of sandstone, has been presented to the Bowers Museum by John Rudolph of 724 Minter street, Santa Ana. The bowl was unearthed by Mr. Rudolph 32 years ago, and he has kept it in his possession ever since that time. The bowl was presented to the museum Wednesday.

Following is an excerpt from the Santa Ana Daily Evening Blade, dated March 24, 1903, telling of the bowl's discovery:

"An interesting relic was unearthed yesterday not far from the heart of the city. John Rudolph, an employe of the city water department, while engaged in making a water tap at the corner of Third and Ross streets, encountered a hard substance about six inches below the surface. Uncovering enough to see its shape, he was led to continue the excavation more carefully, and uncovered a massive stone mortar such as were in use by Indians for grinding maize and grain.

"The mortar, which is in a perfect state of preservation, without a crack or a chip, measures 20 inches across, about ten inches deep, and weighs over 160 pounds. It is in perfect circular form, three or four inches thick at the bottom, with the sides tapering to an inch in thickness at the top."

John Winterbourne, assistant to Mrs. F. E. Coulter, curator at the Bowers Museum, said today that the huge bowl-shaped artifact is not a mortar, but a storage bowl. It is typical of the work done by the Catalina Indians and tribes in the region near Santa Barbara. Mr. Winterbourne said it is the most nearly perfect specimen of its kind he has ever seen.

$164,000 PROJECTS AT SEAL BEACH RECEIVE PWA APPROVAL

WATER PLANT AND JETTY IN PLAN

City Council Gets Word From State Official To Start Work

SEAL BEACH.—Final PWA approval of three projects for Seal Beach totaling $164,000 was received last night at the city council meeting. A. B. Wilder, administrator of the California division of the PWA stated in a letter to the city officials that plans and specifications had been accepted for the construction of the $82,000 breakwater at the western entrance to Anaheim Landing bay, a $52,000 sewage treatment plant, and a $30,000 water plant.

Immediate action was taken. September 5 was set as the day to open bids on the sewage treatment bonds. As soon as the money for the bonds is assured, PWA officials will send a check for $12,000 cash as their part of the sewage plant. Construction will follow immediately.

City Engineer in Charge

City Engineer Victor Hays will be in charge of construction. F. S. Curry, San Bernardino consulting engineer, prepared the plans and specifications for all three projects.

A movement to secure federal and state aid for sidewalk, curbing and street improvements was started today. Hays journeyed to Los Angeles to confer with state officials to determine amount of money available from the state gas tax. Additional funds will be secured through the provisions of the Emergency Relief Appropriation Act of 1935.

Applications will be filed with both organizations next Friday, stipulating the necessary improvements, amount of material, and number of laboring hours.

Brick Dust

By BRICK GAINES

At last, things are beginning to happen about Anaheim's new postoffice!

They've waited for goodness knows how long to hear something about their new federal building. From what we hear, the money's been ready, Anaheim's been ready, but there's been no architect or engineer to carry on.

Now Postmaster Whitaker has plans for the new building. It's to have a basement big enough for the whole town to meet in. Some say that it's not an architectural addition to the city, but at least it's efficiently laid out.

Cost will be about $100,000. Location, on Broadway between Lemon and Los Angeles streets. When? Don't know. Government will open bids next month, which is first intimation of real action.

Gus Barnes, Placentia's chief of police, has a nice, new, shiny red hat.

Police chiefs don't usually wear nice, new, shiny red hats, and Gus isn't trying to start a new fad. He's going deer hunting.

He has a very secret hunting ground, called Horse Neck Creek, or some such name, but personally, I don't think very much of his choice of a place to tramp around looking for deer. Last year he succeeded in bagging his animal, all right, but it looked like a cross between an anemic jackrabbit and a field mouse. Weighed something like 90 pounds.

This year perhaps he'll be lucky and bring home two—one in each rear pocket.

Bill Queale, who cooperates in publishing the North Orange County Enterprise in Fullerton, got himself all cracked up in an automobile accident on Monday. He's in the hospital and we can't go to see him, but we all wish him well.

* * *

Goody! I have a public!

I discovered at last that somebody's noticed this column when I was almost attacked, physically, yesterday, for a frightful pun which appeared not long back.

Couldn't exactly call it constructive criticism, but it got noticed, anyway.

* * *

Harbor Master Tommy Bouchey at Newport Bay has a nice new motorboat which the city council bought for him. The boat'll go 40 knots, or something.

Just to keep my critical reader in hot water, I might remark that he shouts "Knots to you" when he passes slower boats, but I don't think I'll chance it.

* * *

Warren Bradford, Placentia Orange packer and oil weller, told me not to say anything about his fishing trip, but I just can't help it. Every year he takes his employes and friends on an outing to San Diego. He charters a boat and shows 'em all a good time. Today is the day of his annual trip. Brickdust was supposed to go along, but duties prevented. I still hope they catch a lot of fish.

Warren's very musical—led the band at Stanford and still plays a mean trumpet. Perhaps he'll catch a piano tuna today. (I know that'll stop the critical reader for awhile.)

BRING ON YOUR FIRES!

Now is the time to think of your wardrobe for fall. And if you're smart you'll commence right at the top and make yourself this crocheted hat and then the purse to match of course. Simple to make—they are done entirely in single crochet. The hat is a style that goes equally well with dresses and suits. The tilt of the brim gives it that pertness that we all look for—especially in a hat. In the matching purse, the center panel adds contrast by the different direction of the stitches. It is a new smart form especially designed for fall. Both hat and purse are very effective in yarn.

In pattern 5408 you will find directions for making the hat and purse; material requirements; illustrations of the set and of all stitches needed.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to Santa Ana Journal Household Arts Department, 117 East Fifth street, Santa Ana, Calif.

50,000 SHOPPERS TO SWARM CITY FOR SATURDAY DOLLAR DAY

EVENT TO BE LARGEST IN YEARS

Merchants Cooperating For Gala Day; Scores Of Bargains Ready

Fifty thousand shoppers are expected to throng the business district of Santa Ana tomorrow as merchants throughout the city cooperate to make the 1935 semi-annual Dollar Day tomorrow the biggest sales event the community has seen in years.

Windows were decorated last night so that buyers could make pre-sale decisions on merchandise which they anticipate purchasing. The lighted displays along the main streets of the city were expected to attract hundreds of window shoppers tonight.

Merchandise that had been ordered several months ago was put in readiness for tomorrow's selling festival.

Along Fourth street, Sycamore, Broadway and Main, the placards continued to blazon the news of the event. Advertisements in newspapers of the community heralded the sale and special bargains that will be available.

Stores Open Early

Buses from nearby towns expected to accommodate double loads of passengers. Hundreds of extra salesmen and women were enlisted to serve the triple rush of Saturday customers that is anticipated.

Most stores were slated to open half an hour early at 8:30 o'clock. It was believed, however, that regular 9 o'clock closing hours will be observed.

Thousands of $1 bills were expected to change hands as customers take advantage of the values that have been secured for the day's sale.

Anticipate Big Business

"We are expecting a day of unparalleled business throughout the city," J. H. Bell, chairman of the retail division of the chamber of commerce, said today. "Merchandise that will be on hand will be of such quality as to warrant unprecedented acceptance by buyers. We are looking forward with enthusiasm and confidence to a day of business intensity such as hasn't been seen in Santa Ana for a number of years."

In no part of America has the language of early Scotland, Ireland and England been so well preserved as in the Southern Appalachians.

Anaheim's City Park Is Mecca for Baseball Fans Who Take Game Seriously

(This is the tenth of a series of articles having to do with the establishment and development of the Anaheim city park, one of the outstanding cultural and recreational institutions of Southern California. The series is intended to be informative to those cities which do not enjoy park facilities. Santa Ana is listed in the latter classification.)

By ROCH BRADSHAW

Anaheim hasn't forgotten that baseball was meant both for fun and recreation. They take their night ball seriously over there, but at the same time manage to get a lot of enjoyment out of it too.

That's why the diamond at the city park is busy practically every morning and every night.

When the fans think in serious terms, they talk about the Anaheim Valencias, the National Night league team that played in Santa Ana Wednesday night and is managed by Vic Ruedy. Anaheim claims to have been the cradle of night ball, and its National league team brings quite a crowd to the city when its plays in the park almost every Tuesday and Friday night.

Diamond Is Busy

But on Monday and Wednesday nights the park diamond has been busy, too. Those are the nights when the fans and players are out chiefly to have a good time. Eight teams constituting the Anaheim adult softball league have been staging a series of games this summer, with recreation and a good time as their chief objects, rather than just final victory.

Coach Richard Glover of the Anaheim High school has been in charge of the league. There isn't anything very formal about the series, according to Mr. Glover, who pointed out that if a team shows up shy a player or two, there is always someone ready to fill in. No one worries about eligibility.

Big Game Tonight

The final game of the series was to have been played Wednesday night by the Funk's confectionery team and the 20-30 club boys, but another date kept the latter group from appearing. Funk's team, with a spotless record, was declared winner of the series.

Thursday nights have been about the only open evenings at the diamond this summer, and they haven't been open often, for there usually was a playoff of some kind in one of the boys' leagues.

Tonight, as a preliminary to the Valencia-Olive game, the juvenile teams sponsored by the S. Q. R. store and the Kiwanis club will start the playoff to decide the second half winner in this league. The winner will meet the Rotary club's team, first half winner, after the second half playoff, to decide the championship of the series.

If each team wins a game in the final round, the tie will be played off as a preliminary to the Valencia-Long Beach game next week Friday.

Serve City Well

The softball diamond and grandstand in the park have served the city well for the past 12 years. The grandstand seats about 2100 fans. Bleachers were added about six years ago to care for increasing attendance, and sometimes collapsible bleachers are installed for particularly "hot" games, to accommodate about 2,000 more howling onlookers.

Anaheim is sold on its park and its softball facilities. Now they are talking of creating another park on the site of the old Valencia orange show. If that plan goes through, the baseball setup will be transferred there, where there will be plenty of space for regular hardball games.

PAST GRANDS OF TOROSA REBEKAH HAVE MEETING

Covered-dish luncheon at the home of Mrs. Laura Kesemann, at 1322 Durant street, drew together past noble grands of Torosa Rebekah lodge yesterday.

At the business meeting, which was held in the Kesemann gardens, plans were made for a card party August 22 at the Kesemann residence. The affair will be a benefit for all Rebekahs and friends. Mrs. E. C. Kuhl, at 606 Garfield, will be hostess to the group September 19.

Mrs. Allie Cain, president, officiated at the meeting.

Present were Mesdames Laura Kesemann, Fannie M. Lacy, Maude Swarthout, Allie Cain, Mary Hertert, Ida Carey, O. F. Turner, Jean Tremble, Martha Van De Walker, Edith Wilson, A. B. Chandler, E. C. Kuhl, Mary Cooper, Eleanora Pickel, Floyd Spencer, Martha McKee, George E. Triple and Mrs. Amelia Prather Ousterthe of Los Angeles.

After January 1, 1936, all automobiles sold in California will be required to use safety glass.

SCHOOL WORK WILL COST $311,911

Revised estimates as to the probable cost of construction work needed in completing the Santa Ana High school building program and the construction of a new auditorium at Julia Lathrop Junior High school, presented by architects to the board of education last night, indicated that the amount necessary would be $311,911, instead of the previously estimated $300,000.

The new figures presented by J. E. Allison, Los Angeles architect, showed an increase over the original estimates for two of the proposed buildings. It was estimated at the last meeting of the board that block B would cost approximately $75,000 to build. A final estimate presented by Mr. Allison places the figure at $82,000.

Block E Increased

In the case of block E, which would be constructed on the site of the present science building, the figure was increased from $50,000 to $61,000. Both of these revised estimates include the installation of equipment in the buildings. Mr. Allison pointed out that equipment can be included in the federal grant by the Public Works administration when such equipment is actually a part of the building proper.

F. H. Eley, local architect, in presenting preliminary plans for construction of an auditorium at the junior high school, estimated that cost of construction would be $95,700, an increase of $35,700 over the original estimate presented at the last meeting of the board. Included in this figure is $80,000 for actual construction, $6500 for architect fees, $2500 for equipment, $1200 for inspection fees and $1000 for state fees. Plans call for a seating capacity of 950 in the new auditorium.

Shop Cost Unchanged

The original estimate of $75,000 for construction of a shop at the high school remained unchanged. No definite estimate has been reached in this particular case, Mr. Allison announced. He said in all probability the figure would be less instead of more. Final estimates and plans for the building program will be considered at the next meeting of the board, August 27.

Original plans called for the expenditure of approximately $40,000 for reconstructing the high school gymnasium, but in order to keep the total figure as low as possible, the board last night decided to make only necessary repairs to the building which will cost $4000. Most of the repairs will be made on the roof. Mr. Allison said he believed the building could be made safe for occupancy for that amount.

CIVIL SERVICE PROBERS HIT BY LEADER

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 16. (AP)—A critical answer to the tactics of a senate civil service investigating committee and some of its members was entered formally today in the records of the personnel board by its chairman, E. H. Christian.

The former senator, criticizing actions of the committee in recent investigations at Los Angeles and San Francisco, said:

"I haven't been able to find one single legal criticism of civil service administration."

Meeting with Chairman Young of the committee, and two of the six other members, Senators Seawell of Roseville and McGuinness of Dunsmuir, for the first time, the personnel board listened to comment of the senators and tentatively agreed upon two recommendations. They were:

1. Secret efficiency ratings semi-annually by department heads for their employes.
2. Certification by department heads that an applicant chosen for a job is honest.

SCHOOL WILL BUY SCOUT BUILDING

Following the recommendation of a committee recently appointed to appraise the boy scout building at 715 North Sycamore street, the board of education last night passed a resolution to purchase the building at a cost of $1400.

The structure is on school property, and will be used to house the junior college arts and crafts classes. Jules Markel, representing the Boy Scouts on the appraising committee, estimated that a new structure, similar in nature, would cost approximately $2000. Superintendent of Schools Frank Henderson expressed the belief that very few changes in the present interior set-up of the building would be necessary to put it in shape for class work.

Others serving with Mr. Markel on the committee were Therman B. Means, representing the board of education, and O. T. Moore. Mr. Markel said the committee felt the purchase price of $1400 was fair to both the school board and the Boy Scout organization. Money for the purchase will come from high school funds, Mr. Henderson said.

A service station, the property of the Santa Ana school district, located at South Main and Russell streets, was sold last night to Frank F. Ey jr. for $200. The board had previously announced that no bids would be accepted for less than $300, but after having advertised for bids twice during a period of three weeks, and receiving no other bids but that of Mr. Ey, the board decided to make the sale.

RIVER'S 'SPREE' BEATS GUAGES

After checking up on the recent "spree" of the Santa Ana river, W. W. Hoy, water engineer, said today that the unprecedented flash flood rose so rapidly Tuesday night that apparatus of irrigating company and government guaging stations was unable to record it fast enough.

The apparatus worked all right, and the needle, or pen, moved speedily up the chart; but the ink wouldn't flow fast enough to make a line.

Water Adds Soil

The flood, said Mr. Hoy, flowed to a point one mile below the Yorba bridge. Forty acre feet of water flowed as far as that point. It was extremely muddy, and farmers who got that water for irrigating can rejoice over rich soil added to their lands.

The Santa Ana Valley Irrigation company and the Anaheim Union Water company each caught about 25 acre feet of the flood, Mr. Hoy said.

At the Prado guaging station the river rose approximately 1.8 feet.

No Similar Record

There has been no record of such a flood in recent years, but in 1884, when it rained every month in the year, there was a big flow in June.

Tuesday's flash flow resulted from heavy storms in the vicinity of Crafton and Mentone, about 20 miles east of Colton.

400 Women Mingle at Gala Party Given by Ebell Section at E. D. White Home

80 Tables in Play Under Umbrellas

Pretty Pastel Summer Frocks Lend Color to Outdoor Scene

Some 400 women mingled to play contract or auction bridge or to sit enthralled during Mona Summers Smith's review of "The Distaff Side," John Van Druten's play, when the E. D. White home on North Broadway provided a colorful setting for the benefit garden party which Mrs. Rex Kennedy and her ways and means committee of Santa Ana Valley Ebell club sponsored yesterday afternoon.

A wide variety of smart summer frocks with pastel color schemes predominating lent added color to the garden, in which numerous card tables were arranged under striped beach umbrellas.

Mrs. Tradewell, Mrs. Mark Lacy and Mrs. Alex Brownridge won prizes in contract, and Miss Sibyle Norman and Mrs. Paul Bailey in auction bridge, and Mrs. A. G. Flagg, Mrs. F. L. Schmidt and Mrs. J. B. Jouvenat, for luck. All the prizes were large cakes in party boxes wrapped cleverly with purple, blue, gold, pink or green cellophane and silver ornaments. Mrs. B. J. MacMullen, prize committee chairman, wrapped the prizes.

Mrs. A. G. Flagg supervised the tickets. Mesdames Ralph Smedley, George Raymer, Hugh J. Lowe, Horace Stevens, Hugh Shields, Dexter Ball, J. I. Clarke, Wilbur Barr, William H. Maag, W. I. Ferrey, John Ball, F. P. Jayne, J. T. Wilson, E. R. Abbey, J. E. Liebig, J. P. Hatzfeld, J. C. Lamb, J. C. Horton, C. D. Newman, Wyckoff Hoxie, Ellis Diehl, Walter E. Watkins and White were others on various committees for the party.

Miss Bettie Timmons of the Girls' Ebell, chairman of the assisting serving committee, was helped by Misses Charlotte Mock, Doris and Marjorie Keeler, Gerrie Gibson, Ione Hooven, Marian Brownridge, Barbara Tucker, Jean McKamy, Betty Lacy, Jean Dowds, Geraldine Gilbert, Betty Smedley, Martha and Roberta Tuthill, Betty Jane Moore, Florence Liggett, Nancy White, Barbara Dunton, Helena Bailey, Barbara and Lucille Lambert, Marguerite Pimental, Barbara Speed, Janet Hollingsworth, Patty Rapp, Helen Marshall, Lewellyn Allen, Elaine McReynolds, Betty Hays and Caro Cogan.

At the close of the play the girls served assorted pastel-iced cakes and tea.

Mrs. Smith received a number of compliments from her listeners for the manner in which she presented her review, a character study of the very different feminine members of a modern family, centering around the conflict in the mind of Alix, young daughter of the family, as to which of two suitors she should marry.

MRS. KATE SUTTON IS TO GO EAST

Off for a six-weeks' vacation, Mrs. Kate Sutton of 208 South Flower will leave at 8 o'clock Monday evening from Los Angeles on the Union Pacific for New York state.

She will visit her son, Elliott Wilkie at Cayuga, and her daughter, Mrs. Charlotte of Geneva, where she lived for 20 years.

Camping, motor boat rides, and jaunts to the lakes near Geneva have been planned by Mrs. Sutton on her vacation trip.

Approximately 9,900 persons over 70 years old are on relief rolls in 63 Missouri counties.

NEWMAN-VAIL RITES SOLEMNIZED IN CHURCH CHAPEL

In the bride's chapel of First Methodist church Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, Miss Luetta Lorraine Vail was married to James D. Newman of Santa Ana. The Rev. George Warmer jr., brother of Miss Florence Warmer, one of the bride's closest friends, officiated.

The bride wore formal white satin and a long tulle veil, and carried gardenias. Miss Frances Schwantes, in pink organdy with sweet peas, was maid of honor. Misses Dorothy Gutzman and Marjorie Jacques, wearing identically made gowns of green and pale yellow net and carrying sweet peas, were bridesmaids.

Don C. Newman was best man. Ivan Scott and Paul Jacques were ushers.

Miss Ruth Beemer sang "All For You," and Miss Esther Vogt played the traditional wedding music.

After the ceremony the couple left for a motor trip to Yosemite National park. The bride wore a pink silk suit. They will be at home to their friends next month at 615 East Bishop street.

Mr. Newman, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Newman of South Van Ness street, attended Santa Ana Junior college, as did Mrs. Newman, who is the niece of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Schwantes of Orange.

The Thinkers

Wherein women of the community express their views on topics of particular interest to women.

Do you think children should be permitted to read whatever especially interests them, or do you think parents should insist on their reading the classics?

Mrs. George T. Calhoun: I think they should have some of the classics, but I am in favor of children being allowed to read children's books while they are young and can enjoy them. They get the classics in school and will turn to them gradually, usually, when they are older.

Mrs. Daniel Adams: I believe in children reading good books. It's a good idea for them to start out right.

Mrs. Oscar E. Baker: I'd say they should read children's books. There's plenty of time for the classics when they grow up.

Mrs. Eugene Robinson: I think children should be allowed to read books they really enjoy. Of course, they should be guided into worthwhile types of reading.

A "Forty Year Club" will be formed in July, 1936, by citizens who lived in the original Miami, Fla., in 1896-7.

LAGUNA PLAYERS TO PRESENT POPULAR VEHICLE

The Community Players of Laguna Beach will offer as their next production, "A Bill of Divorcement" by Clemence Dane, to be presented at the Playhouse Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights, August 23, 24 and 25, under direction of Elisabeth Pierce and George Dunham.

The cast follows: Sally Barnett, Dorothy Pierce, Lewellyn Lissak, Harring Griggs, Victor Rankin, Ted Lucas, Hiram Shaw, Ray Grimes and Betty Monahan.

"A Bill of Divorcement" is the highly dramatic story of a young girl who courageously sacrifices her own happiness for that of her father and mother. Interesting situations are developed when the father, who has been an inmate of an insane asylum for 12 years, returns to normalcy only to find his former home life shattered.

MISSIONARY MEET HAS COMRADESHIP FOR THEME

"Comradeship" was the program theme which young people of the First Presbyterian church followed when they presented the entertainment for Wednesday's annual outdoor luncheon of the First Presbyterian Missionary society held at the home of Mr. and Mrs J. R. Moore, 424 West Second street.

Miss Bonnie Kaiser, from the Grace Rowley chapter, gave a reading.

Representing the world friendship group, Miss Eugenia Bond gave a reading and Ruth Hawley read "The Touch of the Master's Hand." Mrs. Edith Osborne is director of this section.

Mrs. W. W. Anderson read a letter from Miss Grace Rowley, nearing Honolulu on the return trip to her mission post in China. A display of a Chinese doll family sent here by Dr. Ralph Lewis, missionary in China, was made by his mother, Mrs. H. W. Lewis.

Making their third appearance on programs at the California Pacific International Exposition, Miss Dorothy Flintham, soprano, and Miss Miriam Powell, pianist, will give two one-hour programs at the fair next Wednesday.

Both girls were graduated last June from Orange high school, and have received almost all of their musical training in that institution, under the teaching of Miss Phyllis Lucy Keyes.

C. and Miss Powell to Occidental, where they will be expected to give service to the schools in the music departments in return.

Miss Jess Coe is playing the accompaniments for Miss Flintham, as the programs are too lengthy to permit Miss Powell to do this and her solos.

FULL CALENDAR OF EVENTS KEEPS CALUMPIT BUSY

Tuesday and Wednesday of this week were busy days for Calumpit camp and auxiliary members of the U. S. W. V.

Bridge and bunco entertained the group at their open house Tuesday evening in the Knights of Columbus hall. Prizes in the play went to Mrs. H. C. Moberly, Charles Chatlin, Mrs. Charles Hannah and Garry Fields of Orange. The special award was presented H. C. Moberly. Mrs. A. H. Hall was in charge of the card games and Mrs. Oscar Kurtz of the bunco.

Refreshments were served by a committee including Mrs. Charles Reagan and Mrs. Jack Hess.

Trundling down to Oceanside, the drum corps bus, driven by A. H. Hall, carried a delegation of members to the sewing circle Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kincaid. A covered-dish luncheon was served at noon, and swimming and sewing vied to attract the guests during the afternoon.

Members who went were Messrs. and Mesdames H. C. Moberly, Charles Lindquist, A. H. Hall and W. M. Brown, and Mesdames Charles Cook, Effie Hawley, James Randel, Charles Reagan, Henry Sands, Emma King Wassum, Walter Tantlinger, W. H. Showalter and Frank Rowe. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Meisinger, Charlene Kincaid, Kate Christenson, Vina S. Hawkins, Myra Kuhn, Emma Schick, Margaret Showalter, Victor Sands, Richard Van Netta, W. A. Kein and Bobby Jim Wassum. BARBARA ROWLAND FETED IN HAWAII

The crowds are still following Barbara Rowland, Santa Ana's winner in the California Outdoor Girl contest, according to a radiogram received yesterday by Mrs. Russell Wilson, Barbara's sister.

"Arrived this morning. All feeling fine. Wonderful reception," was the message sent Wednesday by Mayor Fred Rowland from Honolulu.

The mayor's coup to surprise Barbara at San Francisco was a success, Mrs. Wilson said. Barbara and Mrs. Rowland with 10 other guests were at a luncheon at the Cliff hotel in San Francisco last Friday when Mayor Rowland arrived to announce his trip across with them.

Readers Advise 16-Year-Old Girl to Wait Before She Marries Much Older Man

BY MARY STODDARD

She signed herself "Waiting" and anxiously looks forward to our readers' advice. She's 16 and motherless and thinks she will be happy if she marries a man of 42 who can give her a good home. Her father, who is 40, and her aunt, with whom she lives, object to the marriage because of the difference in age.

Here are some viewpoints from our readers:

Dear Miss Stoddard: It has always been my policy to be interested in how person or persons live, as I figure they have the right to live their own lives in any manner they see fit, but this letter from 16-year-old WAITING is the most atrocious I have ever heard of.

The only thing WAITING is taking into consideration, when contemplating marriage with a 42-year-old man, is the fact HE EARNS $150 A MONTH—HAS WORKED WITH A FIRM 15 YEARS—SHOULD BE ABLE TO TAKE CARE OF HER WITH THAT SALARY—ALSO HE IS KIND TO HER. The most comical part of this summary is that HE IS KIND TO HER. Why wouldn't a 42-year-old grandpop be kind and fatherly and give her good (?) advice or do anything to have her become his wife? When this man is 50 years old she will be 24. Isn't this wonderful and something to look forward to! Can Miss 16 visualize and see beyond the length of her nose what kind of friends she can expect to have by this kind of a marriage?

This 42-year-old man is not crazy, but should be put in an asylum as he is not fit to be free where he comes in contact with 16-year-old young misses.

This letter is harsh and my only regret is that I haven't got the chance to lay my hands on this 42-year-old romancer. Miss 16-year-old is to be forgiven because she hasn't reached the age where she can think for herself.—Mr. 27.

* * *

Think of Future

Dear Miss Stoddard: I have just read "Waiting's" letter and I would like to tell her what I think about it.

I've been married two years and I certainly wouldn't trade my husband for all the riches in the world and he is only seven years older than myself.

Get a man more your age. It will make so much difference when you are 35 and he will be 61, an old man. You may not think of it now, but in a few years you will be so sorry.

My dear, I know what I'm talking about. The same thing happened to me when I was just 17. I fell in love with a man 22 years my senior and I was going to marry him. Mother came to me and said, "Please think it over for at least a year." I did and that was four years ago and I'm so glad I listened to her. You will be, too. SALLY.

WILMA PATERSON TO BE MARRIED TO ONTARIO MAN

That Miss Wilma Paterson, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Paterson of Balboa, will be married August 30 to Ward Gillilain of Ontario, was learned by a group of her friends who attended a miscellaneous shower given Wednesday evening in the home of Mrs. Stella Menges on South Birch street by Mrs. Mina King, Mrs. Blanchard Beatty and Miss Catherine Walberg. The shower was the first announcement of the coming wedding.

Dr. Emma Tannenbaum, Miss Grace Marcher and Mrs. M. B. Walbridge won prizes in hearts. A bride's cake was served in an all-white dessert course after the play. White asters and ivory tapers appointed the table.

SCAVENGER HUNT HIGHLIGHTS PARTY AT W. W. HOY HOME

Scavengers were the roles taken by guests at a party at the W. W. Hoy home, 1225 French street, Wednesday night, when a scavenger hunt was announced as the main entertainment of the evening.

The party was given in honor of Miss Maurine Harris who left yesterday for the University of California at Berkeley, and for Miss Evelyn Walker, who is leaving to accept a position in Minnesota.

Co-hostesses were the Misses Jean Hoy and Merlene Julian.

Winners in the scavenger hunt were Miss Annabel McFadden, Miss Elizabeth Heemstra and Miss Harris. Refreshments closed the party.

100 COUPLES ARE EXPECTED TO ATTEND DANCE

One hundred couples are expected to attend the midsummer sports dance of Beta Phi chapter, Kappa Alpha Phi fraternity, tomorrow evening in the Santa Ana Country clubhouse, it was learned today from Ed Stauss, chapter treasurer.

PAST MATRONS OF HERMOSA O.E.S. HAVE MEETING AT BEACH

Conventional programs were set aside by Hermosa chapter, O. E. S., past matrons in favor of an informal day at the Three Arch bay home of Mrs. F. H. Cloyes yesterday.

Assembling at Mrs. Cloyes' home, the group went from there to the pergola near the playgrounds of the bay for an outdoor luncheon. Varieties of summer delicacies, brought pot-luck by the members, stocked the luncheon tables. Bouquets of garden flowers were centerpieces.

On the oceanfront, the home of the hostess overlooked a panoramic view and provided an effective setting for the meeting of the past matrons. Mrs. Jacob Bohlander, president, officiated. Mrs. G. R. Safley conducted devotionals. Guests were Mrs. J. F. Jacoby, worthy matron of Hermosa chapter, and Mrs. Etta Cloyes Evans of Santa Ana.

Since five of the members celebrated August birthdays, a toast was given to their health and happiness. Those honored were Mrs. O. M. Robbins of Pasadena and Mrs. W. D. Finn, who were unable to be present, Mrs. C. F. Dunphy and Mrs. J. R. Medlock, and Mrs. M. M. Holmes, whose birthday anniversary fell on the meeting date.

Present were Mesdames W. D. Barker, C. D. Benight, Jacob Bohlander, F. H. Cloyes, C. S. Dunphy, John A. Harvey, M. M. Holmes, Ruth Hurlburt, Blanche Hansen, H. T. Jones, J. W. McCormac, J. R. REBUILDING OF CHURCH TOLD

TUSTIN.—The Service Sunday school class of the Advent Christian church here is remodeling the church kitchen as the first step in complete renovation of the building, it was learned today when work was started on the project.

This undertaking is not a part of the regular reconstruction program, to be started in the near future, according to the Rev. Howard Nason, minister of the church. The money being spent in enlarging the kitchen was earned when the Service class sponsored a social some weeks ago and earned $60 to contribute to the program.

Definite plans for complete remodeling of the entire church have been approved and will be put into effect as soon as it is determined how much money there will be to spend on the undertaking.

CHURCH GROUP HAS PROGRAM

WESTMINSTER.—Young people of the Presbyterian church presented their annual program Wednesday evening under direction of Mrs. Grace Elizabeth Groves. The opening prayer was given by the pastor, Dr. John Klene. Miss Margaret Clinton spoke on Japan, wearing a Japanese costume. Billy Rose played two violin solos, Miss Winifred Snasdell talked on Eskimos, Mrs. Groves played the piano accordion and Craig Snasdell talked on "Cannibal Farmers."

The program was given in the form of a radio broadcast with Craig Snasdell acting as master of ceremonies and Marvin Penhall as studio pianist.

The closing prayer, in the form of a poem, was given by Mary Eastwood. At the close of the program refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed.

READY MADE WIFE

BY CORALIE STANTON

SYNOPSIS: Laurie is pretending to be the wife of Rex Moore, in order to save Rex's job, and in return for the fact that she herself started the pretense long ago, because she and her sister Gladys were starving and desperate. Now Rex is flying to rescue some airmen in Central Africa, and Laurie is complaining to Gladys about the latter's free and easy attitude toward one Jimmy Smith.

CHAPTER XVII

TABLES TURNED

"Glad, I don't like the idea of you picking up with men like that," went on Laurie. "Is he young?"

"Fairly. Not a kid. I haven't any use for infants, old girl. I met him in Manchester first, if you want to know the whole dreadful truth. I rather think he came to Liverpool—not just by chance."

"You mean he followed you? Has he asked you to marry him, Glad?"

"Kind of hinted that I'm the only girl in the world."

"Are you in love with him?"

"I like him a lot."

"Have you heard from him since you've been here?"

Glad shook her head.

So that was the reason of her dash to the postman and to the telephone bell.

Laurie's anxiety was not much allayed. At the same time, on the surface, there was nothing uncommon in a lovely girl on the stage making friends with a rich young man. It was Laurie's nature, her intense capacity for emotion. There was something maternal in her devotion to her young sister.

"I suppose I'm silly," she said, looking lovingly at the girl. "But you're such a child to me, Glad, and you're so terribly pretty. If your friend writes or comes to London, you must ask him here and let me meet him."

She dared not go on and ask other things she wanted so much to know—how far it had gone, whether the young man had kissed Glad, whether he really meant anything. But, if she could see him, she would know.

"He's bound to turn up," said Glad complacently. "I gave him my address. You'll be crazy about him. He's got 'it' all right. And he says I've got lots of sex appeal."

This upset Laurie again, and rattled her so much that she spoke as if she herself were very wise and very bitter, and knew men inside out.

Glad gave a little shriek of laughter.

"If only the girls could hear you! You ought to do one of your comic turns on the stage, Laurie! I can look after myself," she added confidently. "And it's all very well for you to preach, you've got your husband back again and you're in for a life of thrills.

"What's he really like, Laurie? You haven't told me anything, hardly. Is he as wonderful as you thought when you married him? You were a queer girl, never talking about him after you thought he was dead—you were always the same old oyster! By the way, Jimmy taught me to eat oysters—that's if I have had enough champagne! Tell me about Rex Moore, old girl! Does he know how to make love?"

Laurie flushed. There was a curious quality about Gladys' wide grey-blue eyes. It seemed sometimes as if they could look right into you, but not wtih love and understanding; rather, with some strange "fey," merciless insight, into your secret thoughts and your inmost heart. Laurie had memories of that piercing vision when she had first had to lie to her sister after Rex Moore's supposed death.

"It has been rather a difficult time," she said stiffly. The words came to her lips unbidden. "You see, Rex and I have to get to know each other all over again."

"And I suppose you're in a stew because he's gone off again so soon?" put in Gladys, with an arch assumption of knowledge that roused Laurie's temper. She had never been so angry with her sister before, and burst out with what she immediately felt to be a most imprudent retort.

"Rex and I are not at all sure that we shall get on well together. Two years is a long time. But he is a wonderful man. We'll leave it at that, Glad. I don't want to say any more."

"You got my message all right last night, Mrs. Moore?" Mark Albery asked Laurie the next afternoon, when he sent for her to take some letters. "Splendid news, isn't it? Moore has done exactly what I knew he would. He has found the men. Did you get it exactly—did you have a map to look it up on?

"They had crashed in a thick jungle on the borders of the Belgian Congo hundreds of miles from anywhere. Finding them was just the mixture of genius and common-sense that Moore is famous for. He hasn't lost his cunning. You must be very proud of him."

"The poor men were hurt, you said, Mr. Albery?" Laurie asked.

"Apparently rather badly. But the wireless said they had already got a rescue party on its way. Anyhow, they're alive, and they wouldn't be but for your husband."

Laurie, curiously enough, did feel a little glow of pride, and immediately took herself to task for it.

"Mr. Wilmer Jones must be very wonderful too, Mr. Albery," she said.

"Of course." He looked at her, as she bent over her note book, ready for work. Her voice sounded cold to him, with a raw edge on it. She was unhappy. Now he was sure of it. "Jones is an experienced airman and a good fellow. But there is only one Rex Moore."

As he went through his correspondence, dictating letters and notes for reference, nobody would have thought from his dark, impassive face that he was inwardly consumed with a passion for his business-like secretary that was growing every day. Least of all, Laurie herself.

For Mark Albery, with his wealth, and his intriguing personality, met the most beautiful and gifted women of the day, and could have had his pick of them. And yet it was Laurie Moore whom he desired with a fierce intensity that was actually threatening to interfere with his life.

When he had finished, and she stood up, with her book in her hand, her face caught a shaft of sunlight through the window, and those little lines of anxiety and distress showed plainly round her eyes and mouth.

Albery went up to her, as she was moving towards the door.

"Forgive me, I can't help thinking you are unhappy," he said in a low voice.

"Oh, no!" She drew back a little scared by the expression in his eyes. This life of subterfuge and pretense made her afraid in all her dealings with him.

"I expected you would not admit it. You are so brave," he went on. "But you can trust me. I wish you would. Is anything wrong?"

"No, thank you, Mr. Albery."

"I can't help feeling that you find your life with Moore not what you expected," he persisted, his smooth voice enveloping her in a warm atmosphere of sympathy.

"I—we—" Laurie stammered, "I mean, it is a little difficult for Rex and me to get used to one another again. It seems strange. Thats' all."

"He is kind to you?"

"Oh, yes!" She was perplexed, and so confused that she overlooked the impertinence of his questions. She summoned up all her self-control. Rex Moore had been so emphatic about their keeping up the farce until he came back.

She did not think it would be wise to hint to Albery that they might not get on well together, as she had done to Gladys. That was not in their bargain. "It is very kind of you to bother about me, Mr. Albery," she added cheerfully, "but really there's nothing the matter with me at all."

Albery took her hand.

"If ever anything should happen, and you were unhappy, you must come and tell me," he said. "I shall always be there, to help you, to do anything I can for you."

She looked at him with glowing eyes of gratitude. And then, suddenly, she received a violent shock.

Albery's voice sounded in her ears, thick and trembling.

"You don't understand—I am unhappy about you. You came too late into my life. Don't you see? It is more than I can bear to watch you—married to another man! Happy with him, as you say! When I love you—when I love you!"

She was speechless. It was so incredible.

His arms went round her, grasping her shoulders hard. His eyes burned into hers. His lips murmured incoherent words of passion. He had lost control of himself.

Albery takes command, tomorrow, of a difficult situation.

CALL RECESS IN ARSON TRIAL

Ending its third week in court, the trial of Edward Tabor and Jess Sibley, charged with conspiracy and arson, was continued late yesterday until Monday at 10 a. m., by Presiding Judge James L. Allen before whom the case is being tried in superior court.

When court adjourned yesterday Mark Herron, chief of the defense counsel, still was presenting his arguments to the jury. He had been arguing for two days, and indicated he would require considerable of the morning session of court Monday to complete presentation. Attorneys Joseph Burke and Carl Heim, also of the defense, are scheduled to address the jury, and will be followed by District Attorney S. B. Kaufman who will make the closing argument for the state.

Tabor and Sibley are being tried for their alleged share in the burning of an apartment house in Huntington Beach in 1932 owned by Tabor. John Ross and Henry Eli were convicted of the crime. Tabor and Sibley were implicated in a letter written by Rose and sent District Attorney Kaufman from San Quentin prison. Both Eli and Rose have testified for the prosecution.

'INTIMIDATION' TOLD IN SUIT

Sensational charges that his signature to an argeement and promissory note for $500 had been obtained through "threats and intimiations" were contained in a suit started late yesterday in superior court by J. E. Vinson, former Santa Ana used car dealer, and his wife, Mrs. Lillian D. Vinson, seeking declaratory relief against the Santa Ana Finance company.

According to charges contained in the complaint, officers of the finance company threatened "that if said agreement was not made and said note not signed by them that the defendant would put plaintiffs out of business and make it so tough for them they would lose everything they had."

These threats, it is alleged, were made after the finance company had attached property of Mr. Vinson's and property belonging to his wife in which he had no interest. Among other things attached was the grocery store Mrs. Vinson operated in Tustin.

The agreement signed by Mr. Vinson involved several cars sold by him on which the contracts had been sold to the finance company.

Mr. Vinson is asking the court to declare the $500 promissory note void because it was not given for any valuable consideration; to have the agreement set aside, and to declare Mr. Vinson and his wife not indebted to the finance company.

CAUSE FOR DIVORCE

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 16. (AP)—Mrs. Margaret Bennett today was seeking marital freedom from Henry Bennett because, she complained, he kept their home in darkness. "My husband was making good money," she declared, "but he wouldn't pay the light bill. When the lights were turned off, I had to use candles."

BERGDOLL MAKES OFFER TO RETURN

WEINSBERG, Germany, Aug. 16. (AP)—Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, millionaire American draft dodger, made a new offer of surrender yesterday to the United States government.

His stipulations are that "first the case be taken out of the hands of the military authorities, and, secondly, my family be permitted to reside permanently in the United States."

Reno Overrated As Divorce Mill, Says Guy Gilbert

Reno's reputation as a divorce mill has been considerably overrated, according to Guy J. Gilbert, who returned last night from a Rotary club convention in the Nevada city.

Mr. Gilbert looked about some in Reno and talked to one of the court bailiffs. The bailiff pointed out that it takes Reno a whole month to grant as many divorces as are turned out in Los Angeles in a single day. The figure, he said, is about 90.

The Rotary conclave, devoted largely to education and study, occurred on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Mr. Gilbert represented Stanley Goode, president of the Santa Ana club. Claude McDowell was an unofficial delegate from the local club. The two men, with Mrs. Gilbert and Mrs. McDowell, returned here last night.

Hi Smith, president of the Fullerton club; Robert Robinson, past president of the Orange club, and James Hutchings and Don Wilkie of the Laguna Beach club also attended the convention.

The AAA spent $41,049,408.82 in Kansas in 11 months.

SERA PAYCHECKS FOR 800 ARRIVE

Checks totaling $15,117.76 were being distributed today to 800 persons on rolls of the State Emergency Relief administration, after a delay occasioned by failure of money to arrive on time from Washington. The regular pay day was last Tuesday.

Yesterday notice was received that the money had arrived, and Carl Lindman, paymaster, took the payroll to San Diego. He returned with the checks last night, accordance to Terrence Halloran, SERA director here.

JOHNSON WIDOW'S HEARING DELAYED

Scheduled for hearing this morning, the petition of Mrs. Jessie Elvira Johnson, widow of H. Edgar Johnson, former Fullerton publisher, for $300 monthly as a family allowance for herself and daughter, Beverly, was continued until 2 p. m. today with it being indicated that a further continuance will be requested. The delay was granted when Isadore Dockweiler, attorney for Mrs. Johnson, was unable to be in court this morning.

Radio Roundup

TONIGHT'S PROGRAMS

By HOMER CANFIELD

A radio adaptation of Grace Moore's new movie, "Love Me Forever," serves to bring Francia White back to the kilocycles after three refreshing weeks spent with her mother in Covina. The broadcast comes over KFI-NBC at 7:30 o'clock.

The beautiful young Californian is now a real star in her own right. The new "Beauty Box Theater" contract she initiates tonight says so in explicit terms. Her weekly pay check will read four figures.

John Barclay and John Peerce will support Miss White. Al Goodman's excellent musical settings are to be much in prominence. The music consists mainly of well known operatic airs. Jimmy Melton will again be heard opposite Francia when he completes his picture assignment.

Buddy Rogers' band will play its first California engagement tonight at the Pasadena Community dance. KNX remotes a half-hour of their rhythms at 11 o'clock.

Diminutive Jeannie Lang, unique vocalist, will be featured with the Rogers' aggregation which takes over Jan Garber's Catalina stand Aug. 21.

HOLLYWOOD HOTEL

Dick Powell will present his variety-hour in his usual debonair manner and at the usual time and place—5 o'clock, KHJ.

Walter C. Kelley, now in the movie city filming his perennial success, "The Virginia Judge," will be the guest star of the evening.

Kelley will be supported by Marsha Hunt and the popular Negro actor, Stepin Fetchit, to whom infinite laziness is first, second and third nature.

NEW PROGRAM

"Men and Empires," a dramatic half-hour show written by Forrest Barnes, debuts on KFI at 9:30 o'clock. The series will deal with the private lives of the historical great.

The initial broadcast, "The Cardinal's Ring," tells of Cardinal Wolsey's downfall.

The principal roles will be taken by Harry Neville, Theodore Osborne, Charlotte Young and Ynez Seabury.

CHARGE DRIVER WITH DEATH

Charges of manslaughter were filed against Joe Morales, 33, of Atwood, by the district attorney's office yesterday, following an inquest into the death of R. C. Gordon of Fullerton who was instantly killed last Saturday morning when his truck was asserted by struck by a truck driven by Morales.

A coroner's jury late yesterday determined that Gordon came to his death as the result of the negligent manner in which Morales was driving his truck. Morales was arraigned and held to answer on the charges in the Fullerton justice court Wednesday.

MORE ABOUT ORANGES

it was reported that he had no statement to make regarding the new project.

It is understood that notice of the withdrawal was filed Monday, after the regular board meeting of the north Orange county organization. Each year there is a 15-day period in which houses may withdraw, and this period for 1935 expired yesterday.

No official information has been made public on the cause of the withdrawals. However, it has been pointed out for some time that the large volume of fruit handled by an exchange complicates the marketing task and it is understood a feeling exists that smaller exchanges, with smaller amounts of fruit to handle, could devote more time to analyzing market conditions and planning their shipments.

On the other hand it also has been explained that the navel orange districts have a relatively large number of small exchanges, whereas the valencia district in Orange county has a smaller number of large exchanges. This gives the navel areas larger representation on the central board of directors of the California Fruit Growers exchange at Los Angeles. Formation of a new exchange in Placentia will entitle the Valencia region here to another member on the board.

Representatives of the three withdrawing houses are reported to be planning a meeting for next Monday, at which they will decide upon the name of the new exchange, location of headquarters, personnel and other details. Immediately upon formation of the exchange it will become a sub-exchange of the California Fruit Growers association and will assume the same rating as the Northern Orange County Citrus exchange in Fullerton, the Central Orange exchange in Anaheim, and the Orange County Fruit exchange at Orange. The Central exchange withdrew from the north Orange county group about three years ago.

The three houses ship annually from 3000 to 3500 cars of fruit, it is understood. The total output of the parent organization has been about 7000 cars. Rules of the exchange state that three or more houses must unite in order to withdraw and that they must have a total output of 2000 cars.

Representatives of the three houses on the board of directors of the Northern Orange County Citrus exchange are Henry Meiser, Placentia Orange Growers association; E. A. Beck, Placentia Mutual, and Warren M. Bradford, of the Bradford Brothers house.

At Monday's meeting it is probable that a director will be selected to represent the new exchange on the board of the California Fruit Growers exchange.

The three houses will dispose of the balance of their present season's crop through the Northern Orange County Citrus exchange.

foot of the stairs Lage slipped his handcuffs and fled through the south door of the building.

Bob Geivet, Long Beach newspaperman, who was descending the stairs behind the prisoners, pursued Lage until he disappeared between the chamber of commerce building and the courthouse annex.

Bailiff Humiston at no time had an opportunity to fire a shot at the fleeing youth.

All deputy sheriffs and Santa Ana police, armed with pictures of the youth, are spreading a net around the city.

He is described as small and blond, with blue eyes. He was wearing a light brown suit at the time of his escape.

So quickly did the youth move after slipping his handcuffs that Bailiff Dawson, who was leading the detachment of prisoners, did not realize he had escaped until he reached the courthouse door.

Mr. Irwin estimated the per capita purchases in the unincorporated areas at $745.

Per capita purchases for cities outside of Santa Ana and Laguna Beach were estimated as follows: Anaheim, $376; Brea, $360; Fullerton, $327; Huntington Beach, $415; La Habra, $354; Newport Beach, $380; Orange, $329; Placentia, $152; San Clemente, $250; Seal Beach, $297, and Tustin, $410.

FALL'S WIFE TAKES FIGHT INTO COURT

EL PASO, Tex., Aug. 16. (AP)—The embattled wife of Albert B. Fall clung to hope today the testimony that sent the former interior secretary to prison will disclose evidence to prevent eviction from their palatial ranch home near Three Rivers, N. M.

"I am confident the court record will show E. L. Doheny testified his foreclosure on the ranch did not affect the headquarters and 100 to 300 acres of farmland," Mrs. Fall said here.

Mrs. Fall and her ailing, aging husband, apparently were playing a waiting game today, content to let R. M. Sands, manager of the Petroleum Securities company, that yesterday sold the ranch property to the Tres Ritor Cattle company, a New Mexico firm, assume the initiative.

Mrs. Fall defended her husband's claim to live on the picturesque property, and served notice she intended to go into court herself.

"I know I've got the right to do it, and I'm not going to wait for somebody to move us out," Mrs. Fall exclaimed.

Sale of the ranch revived testimony by Doheny before the senate investigating committee that he had loaned Fall, then secretary of the interior, $100,000 to improve the vast estate. The loan was made prior to the time the Elk Hills, Calif., naval reserve oil lands were leased to Doheny's company.

Column Left!

By FRANK ROGERS

ALL EYES OPEN IN ANAHEIM NOW

Following the first announcement of the deal, made Tuesday night in The Journal, everyone in Anaheim is on edge over the report that Portland Beavers are considering training in the Mother Colony.

Vic Ruedy, who started it all because he has a couple of old teammates on the Portland team, tells us the news created a hubbub.

Jimmie Heffron, the Bulletin's veteran and capable sportshawk, and an old player himself, got so jittery in following the story up Wednesday that he typed out an important name incorrectly. Jimmie, in his speed said E. J. Schefter, son of the Portland club owner had visited the town. It was R. A. Schefter, son of E. J.—who is the owner.

By a previous connection we happen to be close to the Portland team and its officers. Just on the sly, they think Anaheim will make a swell training spot. We talked with a few of the players Wednesday night and they registered fine enthusiasm.

FANS STILL WANT TO KNOW ABOUT BUD

Fight fans are persistent devils.

More than a few have asked the answer to something that we can't fathom. Bud Holzhauer, for about the umpteenth time, comes up with an injury and couldn't fight here last night. The boxing commission says he must fight before he works any other spot.

And yet he was widely advertised—in many instances in the column right next to the news of the local postponement—as billed for the Westside arena in Long Beach last night.

While we don't think it's Promoter Sam Sampson or Matchmaker Ben Steffler of the local club, some one has a deal of explaining to do.

* * *

PICKED UP ON THE DEAD RUN

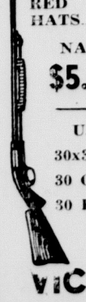

Art Arroya, for style and class, stands head and shoulders above the average fighter appearing at the local shows . . . Portland's Bill (Little Dyanmite) Cronin, has caught every inning of the Beavers' last 25 games. . . . Many are wondering what's become of Santa Ana's Pinky Greene, popular coach who planned to return from a mid-west trip long ago, is still trekking about the country. . . . Don't use a rifle with a range of more than half a mile if you want to play safe in your deer hunting this season . . . in Los Angeles county officials intend to crack down on those who break the law in this respect. . . . Sam Gibson, North Carolinan who paces the San Francisco Seals' pitching staff, has won 16 games and lost but three. . . .

Imagine this: down in Huntington Beach the wise ones are predicting a Louie Neva-Chico Sabella duel in the big playoff for night ball honors. . . . Overlooking the fact that Santa Ana's Stars stand between the Oilers and a chance to meet the American league champions, the fans think the former National league ace whom the Oilers shunted off to make room for the great Neva, will bring the Pomona nine in ahead and then buck the beach boys in the "little world's series." . . .

You find less and less hope for the Stars among the talk-it-over groups, but we think the pessimism is too sincere for the situation . . . while the locals can't be rated as favorites by long stride, all is not lost. Don't lose any kopeks on it, but the Stars should make a series of it, at least.

Rogers Hornsby personally warms up his Browns pitchers those innings when the regular catcher is delayed getting his armor on.

Primo Carnera's purse for his fight with Joe Louis is tied up by the suit brought against the Ambling Alp several years ago by Miss Amelia Tersini.

HELEN LIKES TO COOK

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 16. (AP)—La Helen Wills Moody, queen of the tennis courts but only a "lady in waiting" in their own kitchen.

She never baked a cake in her life. Admittedly she is a "poor cook." "But I'm interested in the theory of cooking," smilingly explained today the young matron who upset Helen Jacobs and the tennis applecart at Wimbledon a few weeks ago. Mrs. Moody prepares breakfast for herself and family, which includes husband, Fred Moody jr. and two prized dogs.

FORMER CADDY SEEKS TITLE

BIRMINGHAM, Mich., Aug. 16. (AP)—A 17-year-old former caddy who never owned a set of clubs until six years ago, challenged a 19-year-old tournament veteran today for the western junior crown.

The young challenger, Walter Burkemo of Detroit, went up against the longer playing experience of Fred Haas jr. of New Orleans, the defending champion, in the 36-hole final.

STARS USE REBOIN, CONRAD TONIGHT

LODGE ARRAY RALLIES IN 3RD FRAME

Cornelius of 20-30 Club Yields Thirteen Hits; Lindley Gives Five

Will it be the Elks or 20-30's?

Amazed by the great comeback of the B. P. O. E. array, which hung up another victory, 6-4, last night, few fans are willing to venture a guess as to which nine will claim city nightball laurels Monday night.

Ken Miller's formidable Elks shelled Joe Cornelius in the third inning for five hits and five runs. It was this vicious attack that forced the titular series to the limit of five games. The 20-30's won the first two, 10-9 and 5-4, and lost 6-5 prior to last night's defeat.

Catcher Herb Bowe, first up in the third, drove the ball against the leftfield dirt embankment for a triple. Armand Hanson, southpaw pitcher, who played rightfield for the Elks, beat out a bunt when Cornelius elected to hold Bowe at third. Dave Styring walked, filling the bases. The dangerous LeRoy Levens came through with a perfect two-bagger into center to score Bowe and Hanson, and sent Styring to third. Bob Schwarm singled to second, Styring scoring.

Wayne Garlock continued the rally with a grounder into left field for a double. Larry Mitchell juggled the ball, Schwarm racing home all the way from first. Garlock also tried to get to the plate, but was called out on a doubtful decision following a throw from Third-baseman Darwin Scott to his brother-in-law, Jack Scott. Len Stafford and "Porky" Bell struck out to end the circus.

The 20-30's scored once in the first on Darwin Scott's double, a passed ball and Howard McIlvain's infield grounder, and almost caught up with their rivals with three "gift" runs in the last of the third. Jack Scott and Howard McIlvain singled, the former scoring on Garlock's overthrow at first on John Lutz' grounder. Lutz went to second on the play. McIlvain dashed home on a passed ball, and Lutz crossed the log when the Elks attempted to catch him at third.

The Elks concluded the run-making in the fourth. Bowe collected his second extra-base hit, a double past Scott at third, and Hanson brought him home on a grounder that took a contrary hop between the legs of Clarence Patmor at second.

The more experienced Cornelius had the edge in strike-outs over Ellwood Lindley of the Elks, 9 to 3, but Lindley turned in the best performance by setting down the 20-30's with only five hits. The Elks gathered 13, including three doubles and a triple.

ROMERO FIGHTS AL MANFREDO

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 16. (AP)—Hollywood's Legion stadium where the picture fan rubs elbows with screen star and attempts to outdo him in wisecracks, probably will hear a revival of the old wheeze, "you know me, Al" tonight.

The reason is that two fisticuffing Al's, Romero, who started to fame on his tenth Olympiad performance for Mexico, and Manfredo, Fresno welterweight whose cousin, Young Corbett III, once was world's champion, meet in the ten-round main event.

Romero was the favorite, mainly because of knockout ability. On paper, Manfredo, with a win over Ceferino Garcia and a draw with Bep Van Klaveran, seemed to have a slight edge, but he packs no such punch as does the Los Angeles Mexican.

Don Benzor Whips Bantamweight Champion

ANAHEIM BOY OUTCLASSES CARDOZA

Injured Bud Holzhauer Watches Fights from O. C. A. C. Ringside

By FRANK ROGERS

A new fistic idol reigns in Orange county today. He is Anaheim's agile little Don Benzor, midget ringman, who last night upset Lupe Cardoza, Southern California bantamweight champion of the Amateur Athletic union in one-half of a double main event show at the Orange County Athletic club arena.

Although the decision was closer than Kingfish Levinsky and his sister Leaping Lena, the underrated Benzor really captured an edge in the fastest, smoothest, most exciting bouts in recent weeks. Picking his determined little rival as a soft touch, the champion who only last week defeated the state bantam kingpin, took the first round handily, coasted and dropped the next two and probably held the little destiny fellow even in the final.

Champ on Floor

On the floor once from one of Benzor's potent pokes, the Ontario lad lost his temper, his mouth guard and much of his finesee that has swept him to the heights of the simon-pure ring world. Outrushed several times, Cardoza once seemed tremblingly close to being knocked out, but Benzor had set so terrific a pace that he was unable to move in for the kill.

Cardoza's machine-gun left was bottled up most of the time and those times that it did connect failed to slow up the Anaheim aggresser as it has other more experienced, less game fellows.

With his rival-to-be looking on cagily from the ringside, Fullerton's Young Lupe Le Mon made a rather poor showing against one Frankie Herrara, Los Alamitos pudgy-wudgy, dropping the decision in the second main event in a very handy fashion. Bud Holzhauer, who will fight Le Mon here soon after two weeks of hide and seek with local and Long Beach promoters, sat in on the affair with his father and trainer. Holzhauer, out of activity now with an injured thumb, has a string of 23 victories and no defeats and if he is only half as good as that record indicates he will make a large chunk of hamburger out of Le Mon with the Fullerton lad in his present shape.

Ledford Knocked Out

Another outstanding bout on a nine-fight card that atoned in grand manner for a let down last week saw San Bernardino's rugged Larry Ledford upset by Huntington Park's potent Al Garcia. Garcia whipped out a pair of one-two's to the heart and head, sent Ledford down once for a toll that was broken by the towel.

Jimmy Dugan of Riverside cut loose with what looked like a foul to most of the ringsiders, but since fouls are not recognized by the state boxing commission, the blow went unpenalized and San Bernardino's Bill Hite went to his corner unable to continue. Referee Bob White, declaring that a previous injury had really been the telling blow on Hite, called it a technical knockout in the third.

Other results:

Frankie Barago upset Wee Willie Walker, colored, by taking the decision; Joe Ybarra won a lucky win from Fullerton's chesty, clowning Dave Garcia who really had an edge but clowned it away; Santa Ana's 29-year-old Eddie O'Rosco lost on a technical knockout to Al Estrada, San Bernardino, in the fourth—O'Rosco was hit low, given a rest and sent back in for more of the beating which he had been taking dutifully all evening; Jimmy Merced, Placentia, decisioned Al Estrada, San Bernardino.

MRS. J. L. McFADDEN WINS HONORS AT COUNTRY CLUB

Mrs. J. L. McFadden, former women's champion, won first place in medal play and took the special prize in Santa Ana Country club golf for ladies yesterday. Her score was 88-6—82.

Mrs. Osman Pixley finished second with 98-15—83, and Mrs. Harry Bakre third with 97-13—84. In blind hole competition Mrs. N. W. Miller copped first with a 19. Mrs. Pixley was second.

Resembling two locomotives at full steam, Huntington Beach and Olive rambled on toward the County Night Ball league's second-half crown today.

Mowing down 20 men, the sensational Lyle Morse paced Olive to a 7-0 shutout over Brea's first-half champions at Olive last night, while Huntington Beach remained a co-leader by warding off Placentia's threat, 8-6, at Huntington Beach.

"Lefty" Lesser hurled steady ball for seven innings before the Oilers sent their other ace, Urban Peltzer, to the knoll to sew up the game.

Fullerton's Hawks pecked their way to a 14-0 victory over Garden Grove, and Irvine overhauled San Juan Capistrano's Missions, 10-5, in other tussles.

Games Monday: Huntington Beach at Fullerton, Irvine at Olive, San Juan Capistrano at Brea, Garden Grove at Placentia.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

(By the Associated Press)

GUS MANCUSO, Giants—Led attack on Cardinals with double and two singles.

LEFTY GROVE, Red Sox—Limited White Sox to seven hits for season's fifteenth victory.

FRANK DEMAREE, Cubs—Scored three runs and batted in three against Dodgers with triple and single.

EARLE COMBS, Yankees—Drove in one run and scored one in rally that beat Indians.

TOMMY BRIDGES and CHARLES GEHRINGER, Tigers—Bridges held Senators to seven hits for eighteenth win of season; Gehringer drove in deciding run with pinch hit.

Coaches Cole and Foote Return From Lubbock, Tex.

Two of Orange county's coaching brethren — W. W. (Bill) Foote of Santa Ana and Ralph (Bill) Cole of Tustin—arrived in Santa Ana yesterday from Lubbock, Tex., where they were enrolled in Texas Tech university's annual coaching school.

Foote, Saint football director, has been out of Santa Ana all summer. He first went to Minnesota to visit relatives, then joined Tustin's grid mentor, Cole, at Lubbock. They motored to California in Foote's automobile.

At the Texas school they took football courses from Bernie Bierman of Minnesota and "Slip" Madigan of St. Mary's, as well as from other famous athletic directors.

NIGHT BASEBALL OPPOSED

It Will Ruin Game - - - Navin

DETROIT, Aug. 16. (AP)—President Frank J. Navin of the Detroit Tigers said today that, in his opinion, night baseball "would be the beginning of the end for the major leagues."

Not only was the president of the American league leaders firm in that assertion, but he had several pointed remarks to make about the baseball situation in general.

Lower Teams Colorless

Speaking specifically of the majors, Navin remarked that second division clubs usually are colorless and listless and don't draw in any league—night or day.

"That has been proved time and again," he said, "and it won't help Washington or Philadelphia even if it is tried. I would be against attempting it."

He turned in his chair to look out over the field where all seats have been sold for the Sunday game with the New York Yankees, and where a crew of workmen hurriedly fitted together a huge stage over home plate for an "opera under the stars," playing night stands at the Tiger park.

"Why, this night game is baseball's ruination," he said. "It changes baseball players from athletes to actors. It's nothing more than a spectacle. I certainly would be against it."

"Aside from that," he added, "night baseball fails to develop young players. The fielding is different. The pitching is far different and, all things considered, the young players are handicapped by the night style of game."

Navin said that, in his opinion, the night game had not benefitted the minors, and that it hasn't helped much at Cincinnati, the only major club to sponsor it.

Paying Proposition

"I'm not convinced it is a paying proposition," he said. "The minors have found their Saturday and Sunday crowds have fallen off since they started night baseball. When you take everything into consideration—the slump of the crowds, purchase of equipment and the fact that no young players are being developed, there is little that can be said for it."

N. Y. GIANTS ANNEX LEAD IN SERIES WITH CARDS

By HUGH S. FULLERTON Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Whether Bill Terry's Giants atone for last season's debacle by walking off with the National league pennant, they apparently have no intention of letting the rough-and-ready Cardinals take it away while they're playing each other.

Just as they rallied in St. Louis a couple of weeks ago and routed the Cards in one "crucial" series, the Giants have started to dispose of another St. Louis threat in the current meeting. By winning a 5 to 4 decision yesterday they prevented St. Louis from taking the lead by direct attack.

The triumph, in a bitterly fought game that ended with another magnificent "beef" as Manager Frankie Frisch fanned with his bat on his shoulder and the tying run on second base in the ninth, gave the Giants a four-game lead over their challengers. The series has only two more games.

The Cards dropped back into the odd position of holding second place on the percentages while actually trailing the Cubs by a half game. Chicago moved up again by plastering an 11 to 3 defeat on the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The chief Cardinal hopes are that the Cubs will knock off the Giants and then be knocked off in turn, or that both those teams will prove weak on the road. Of the 48 remaining St. Louis games, 30 are on the home lot. The Giants' and Cubs' programs are about evenly divided.

The status of the American league race remained unchanged as the Tigers and Yankees both won handily and remained six games apart.

MISSIONS SINK OAKLAND 9-6

(By the Associated Press)

"Old Sarge" Street's San Francisco Missions, whose highly successful theory and practice of baseball is to collect base hits, rested a bit more securely in the leadership of the Pacific Coast league today.

A 9-6 victory over Oakland yesterday sent the bay city club a game and a half ahead of the Portland Ducks, who climbed into second place by beating Hollywood 8-4.

The Missions had a great deal at the bat, hammering three Oakland pitchers for 14 bingles, five of them by Chick Outen, burly catcher. Outen collected a double and four singles.

Seattle hurlers, meanwhile, continued their effectiveness, to the double discomfiture of Sacramento. It took three of them, Craghead, Bryan and Barrett, to down the Senators, 8-6, in the opener, but Clarence Pickrell shut them out, 1-0, in the seven-inning finale.

The Los Angeles Angels pulled back even with the San Francisco Seals by defeating them, 4-3 in a see-saw battle.

ENGLAND AND U. S. BEGIN NET PLAY

Helen Jacobs of America Opposes Kay Stammers In Wightman Match

NEW YORK, Aug. 16. (AP)—With the invaders an even money choice to score their first triumph in five tries, feminine net stars of England and the United States renew today their Wightman cup rivalry at Forest Hills.

Seven matches—five singles and two doubles—will be played during the two-day series, the thirteenth of the competition. Two singles and one doubles engagement were listed today, with the remaining four scheduled Saturday.

The first match finds the three-time American champion, Helen Jacobs, meeting the youthful British left-hander, Kay Stammers, who gave Mrs. Helen Wills Moody her only beating during this summer's comeback drive.

This pair will be followed by Dorothy Round, top ranking British player and 1934 Wimbledon champion, and Mrs. Ethel Burkhardt Arnold of Los Angeles, No. 2 on the American team.

The day's play concludes with a doubles engagement in which Miss Jacobs and Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan of Brookline, Mass., oppose Miss Stammers and Freda James.

Tomorrow will find Miss Jacobs meeting Miss Round; Mrs. Arnold playing Miss Stammers and Mrs. Fabyan facing Mrs. Phyllis Mudford King at singles.

Dorothy Andrus of Stamford, Conn., will pair with Caroline Babcock of Los Angeles against the second British doubles team of Nancy Lyle and Evelyn Dearman in the final contest.

The United States has won the cup eight times in 12 years it has been up for competition, but the visitors feel they have an excellent chance largely because of their two crack doubles teams.

WESTMINSTER PLAYS HERE IN FINALE

Olive Star Will Replace Ballard; Conrad Shifts To S. A. Outfield

Important changes in their outfield, with Tom Denney and Rod Ballard coming out of the lineup in favor of Francis Conrad and Al Reboin, will be tried by Santa Ana's Stars as an experiment in their nightball fray with Westminister on the Municipal bowl grounds at 8:15 tonight.

So successful has been his revised infield combination of Shortstop Ray Smith and Second-baseman George Greble that Manager Denney hesitates to do any juggling except in the outfield.

PROBABLE LINEUPS

Westminster	Santa Ana
McNabb, 2b	L. Daley, rf
Haserott, ss	Conrad, lf
R. Hapes, rf	Smith, ss

Leonard, 3b	Coates, p
Montgomery, 1b	Urbine, 1b
Jones, lf	Young, 3b
Acker, cf	Preble, 2b
Errington, p	Koral, c

Reboin, .458 slugger from Olive who can play any position, will replace Ballard, and Shortstop Conrad, a good bounce-hitter who has fully recovered from a shoulder injury, will temporarily fill Denney's regular post in left field.

Jimmy Coates will be on the firing line for the Stars, as usual, and "Fuzzy" Errington will carry the burden for George Lackaye's Aviators, who hope to win their second game in six starts against Santa Ana. The local champs took the first four, 2-0, 4-1, 6-1, 5-2, and Westminster won the last round in a 10-9 slugfest.

Floyd Montgomery, one-time Santa Ana football star, now occupies the first-base position which Merle Urbine vacated to join the Stars. Ernie Acker has gone into the Westminster line-up as a regular in centerfield.

Olive and Anaheim square off at Anaheim, and Huntington Beach's undefeated Oilers trek to Long Beach for a crack at the pepped-up Admirals in other games tonight.

The standings:

Huntington Beach	11	0	1.000	2

LEAGUE OF CITIES MEETS THURSDAY

Plans for a meeting of the Orange County League of Municipalities, to be held in the Hotel Laguna next Thursday night, were discussed at a meeting of the mayors' committee of the league at a dinner meeting in the Green Cat cafe last night.

City Attorney Albert Launer of Fullerton was instructed to arrange the program. Mr. Launer announced that the main topic of discussion would deal with legislative matters. Invitations to speak on the program will be sent to City Engineer J. L. McBride of Santa Ana, County Surveyor W. K. Hillyard, and Justus Craemer, assistant director of the department of public works.

TWO DRIVERS NABBED

Jimmie Vargas, 27, of Corona, was arrested by Constable Bartley of Orange yesterday, and brought to the county jail on charges of drunk driving. A second asserted drunk driver was booked by Orange police last night. He is John W. Sanders, 55, of Walnut street, Orange.

Both men and women wore their hair curled or frizzed with irons towards the end of the second century.

Postal receipts have shown marked increases in all major California cities in 1935.

CONTROVERSY — Most controversies would soon be ended, if those engaged in them would first accurately define their terms, and then adhere to their definitions. —Tryon Edwards.

TWO FRIENDS HAVE GONE

A GREAT sorrow has come to the land today. Two good friends have left it, Will Rogers and Wiley Post, each a master of his own art and both beloved as few public figures are. It seems fitting that they should die in action because both led active lives and useful lives.

Few persons in the moving picture colony ever held such a place in the hearts of old and young alike as did Will Rogers. Who is there that has not laughed and wept at his natural portrayal of the lead characters in such pictures as "Life Begins at Forty," "Connecticut Yankee," "State Fair" and a long list of other headlines of the screen?

As a columnist he was without a peer. His cowboy English expressing so much of plain philosophy; his quaint, yet sometimes barbed thrusts at hypocritical politicians did more to expose the silly programs of the demagogues than all the other sages combined. And he always left us chuckling and beaming because he had that way of appealing to the great heart of America. He was "just folks," and his audience understood him and trusted him.

And so, while we are saddened, we are made glad in his memory, which will never die. He fought a good fight. He has left us a great heritage. He wanted to go with Wiley. One of the last things he said before he left Seattle on the Alaska flight was: "I'll go anywhere with Wiley; he's a good flyer."

We imagine the humorist was wise-cracking until the last. We can almost hear him say: "Hold 'er, Wiley; she's a-rarin'."

THE END OF THE TRAIL

OVER at Three Rivers, N. M., an old prospector is nearing the end of the trail.

He is Albert B. Fall, one-time secretary of the interior and the recipient of the "little black bag" of naval oil reserve fame.

The little black bag contained $100,000. It came from the "poke" of Edward L. Doheny, an old-time pal of Fall's. Both had experienced many a hardship together as prospectors in the Black Range.

The $100,000 was a loan to Mr. Fall from Mr. Doheny, both prospectors insisted. But a jury decided it was a bribe and that Mr. Fall's position as secretary of the interior was the only reason Mr. Doheny was anxious to give his old pal a lift.

Mr. Doheny all but wept over that. Of course he was just then prospecting in naval oil reserve "diggings" which Mr. Fall controlled. But the very thought that he would offer or pay $100,000 to Mr. Fall for oil leases or any other concessions, was just too shocking! What Mr. Doheny had accumulated, Mr. Fall as an old prospector-pal, would always share. They were buddies and always would be.

Mr. Fall went to prison and his pal, Mr. Doheny, felt very bad about it. It was a pity his old friend Al and himself should be so misunderstood. Certainly nothing Al had done in the Doheny oil leases, entitled him to a trip to the "big house."

Mr. Fall served his time in prison and retired to his big ranch at Three Rivers, a broken, old man. Mr. Doheny didn't go to prison. He stayed home and kept on prospecting.

A week ago Prospector Fall received a curt letter. It was from the Petroleum Securities company, controlled by his old pal, Prospector Doheny. The letter was an order to move off the old Fall ranch, now the property of Mr. Doheny by reason of a mortgage foreclosure. The ranch has been the Fall home for 35 years.

Mr. Fall, very old and feeble now, insists he won't move. He says it's all Mrs. Doheny's doings and that Mr. Doheny is still his friend.

Mr. Fall should remember he isn't secretary of the interior any more. Why should he have a shanty?

Scram Mr. Fall. Your pal has jumped your claim!

HIDDEN TREASURE

IF SOMEONE gave out authentic word of a hidden $185,000,000 treasure, what a rush there would be to dig it out and cash in on it!

There is such a treasure, scattered all over the country in the form of government bonds and notes which have matured and which the owners have never returned —probably a sizable amount of such wealth right here in Orange county. The government wants to pay them off and is urging any who know of such securities to dig them up and turn them in for cash.

Of course, the securities have ceased to bear interest, and there is no valid reason why owners should not cash them.

Think back carefully. Are you sure that odd book of war savings stamps, that Liberty or Victory loan certificate, hasn't been mislaid or for some other reason not cashed? It might be worthwhile to go through those old trunks in the attic, for some of these overdue government securities date back to Civil War days and before. A few have been overdue more than a century.

Rummage around a bit, or ask dad, or even grandpa —maybe they know. It might pay.

IT'S AN OLD STUNT

OVER in Hollywood, a young man named Stephen Simkhovich has agreed to be frozen for science—and some people seem to think this is novel.

How about the bemused Santa Ana husband who blurts out his wife's age in the midst of a roomful of company?

How about the employe who hits his boss for a raise —just after the boss has gone around the golf course in 71?

Whimsies of O. O. McIntyre

Thoughts while strolling: George M. Cohan is crowd sick, too. Rarely seen any more. That quick, dry grin so peculiar to New York. Like the flash of coral. Add taffy chewing names — Jack Pulaski.

What a lesson Lindbergh taught of the dignity in self effacement! Alice, celebrated Ziegfeld telephone operator. She knows all the Follies secrets. Will Rogers likes to prowl around old barns. Frequent buddies: Billy Leeds and Norman Kerry. The shy producer Sam Harris.

Wanted: A gag to end all Mae West gags. Who remembers what was on the site of the new Waldorf before it went up? Few know as many authors as Bill Lengel. To chorus girls Ned Wayburn is "High Pockets." Elizabeth Arden's whirlwind manner. Aptly named poet: William Rose Benet.

The writer most writers want to know: Theodore Dreiser. And the artist all artists want to know: Percy Crosby. The priests who saunter meditatively along St. Patrick's side yard at sundown, heads down, hands folded behind. There's no stopping that publishing phenom: "When Rome Burns."

And in one of the avenue book stores when you ask for a reading suggestion, the clerks inquire: "Have you read Tom Sawyer lately?" One book that never fails to satisfy. The last stronghold of avenue aristocracy—Tiffany's. Memory: Getting rid of the sad iron for, hot ziggedy, an electric.

It was a not-too-new checker cab curbed in the Murray Hill section. Inside under the meter a hand-printed card read: "The driver of this car was chauffeur for the late J. P. Morgan." And was signed Siegfried Blum. He seemed weary of questioning over his former post. In slightly German accents, he said: "Mr. Morgan iss a very fine gentleman. He taught me to be close mouthed. Jah!"

Martin and Osa Johnson are enroute to Borneo wilds where they will remain for two years in the heart of the fiercest jungles and among the head hunters. Before their departure they spent weeks assisting in the decoration of African Hall, which will house many of their trophies, at the Museum of Natural History. On this safari their photographic ambitions are to film snakes that fly and fish that climb trees. Incidentally, this may be the Johnsons' last expedition. They are eager to settle down to the peace of a middle west farm after their exciting stretches in the world's lost places.

One wonders why most seekers of adventure prefer to climax their years of thrills with solitude. Lawrence of Arabia, in his Sussex seclusion after probably the most romantic career of modern times, is typical. A checkup of the Explorer's club shows that nearly all the international wanderers who have quit the trails now live in isolated spots.

When James Gordon Bennett was running the New York Herald, he had an inviolable rule for his Monday morning front page. It must feature a dog story. Once it was ignored and there was a new managing editor three hours after Bennett saw the omission in Paris. The dog feature, of course, touched off a field day for theatrical press agents. All the stage stars were exploited as having dogs that showed every sort of accomplishment from barking in French to spurning all food save caviar. Bennett never objected to the impossibility of the tales. He did not care so long as the dog was the hero although he was a stickler for accuracy in other news.

Notched in a block on the west side of Third avenue near 51st street is an arcade solid with antique shops and bearing the name Ardlea Court. While much of the stuff is Russian, sold by once rich refugees, there are several early American displays. The stores are cubicles of about 8 by 10 feet and owners sit out front during the dull trading interludes in an exchange of friendly palaver. It is open until midnight.

Another story of George S. Kaufman's lackadaisical reaction to enthusiasm comes from Hollywood. At a luncheon table a returning hunter was telling of his trip. "When we got up," he gurgled, "the entire lake was completely covered with ducks." Kaufman, mildly: "Just one layer?"

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

(WITH Roosevelt's strength rapidly slipping, if not already lost, among the wealthier classes, one of the most important questions affecting the reelection of Roosevelt is that of his strength with those on relief. Is this large stratum of the population behind the man primarily responsible for feeding them? To get the answer, one of the Merry-Go-Rounders applied for relief at the Baltimore transient bureau recently. This is what he found.—Editor's note.)

BALTIMORE, Aug. 16.—A young case-worker, who tried to conceal his youth with a surface sophistication, sat in a cardboard partitioned cubby-hole in the Baltimore and Aisquith streets transient bureau and asked questions:

"How long have you been away from home?

"What kind of work did you last do?

"What do you want—a couple of meals and bed?

"Will you leave town tomorrow?"

Obviously relieved when he got an affirmative reply to the last question, he made out a card for two meals and a bath and passed me on to the Frederick street station.

There two signs read: "Old Men on This Side"; "Young Men on This Side."

An attendant took my coat and trousers to be fumigated, and directed me to a steel trough where I washed my socks, shirt and underwear. They were then hung on a wooden rack and pushed by other attendants into a steam drier. Large signs read: "Important—Wash all light underclothing two times per week and heavy underclothing once a week."

About two dozen men were bathing at 2 p. m.

TOO OLD

THE SHOWERBATH supervisor, a bald, oldish man who had been a construction foreman, turned to another old man who was dressing.

"You and I will never get a job again. If we don't get that old-age pension it's the poorhouse for us. But this young man" (pointing to me) "has some chance left—maybe."

I asked if he couldn't get a construction job under the new works program, but he replied:

"Naw, the contractors don't want us old men. Anyhow there won't be much left for anybody after the politicians get theirs out."

The man at the bathouse desk punched my card, signifying that I had received one bath.

Supper was at 4:30 "sharp." A group of men lounged outside the building. Today was pay-off day and they were waiting for the one dollar weekly in addition to bed and meals which they got for a relief job.

One of them who worked in the relief kitchen said he was allowed $5 for a room and a $2 food order for his wife. He had been making $20 a week in Baltimore garage, but after the end of the NRA his employer cut wages to $12, and his wife demanded that he throw up the job and go on relief.

"Don't you think something will open up under Roosevelt's works program?" I asked,

"Roosevelt is just a lot of newspaper talk," he replied. "I'd never vote for him again."

NO BONUS MARCH

SEVERAL war veterans talked in a group. Three of them were headed toward Washington. A lanky Georgian said he was going to the Washington transient bureau in order to be sent to the FERA camp in South Carolina.

"Why come all the way to Washington for that?" I asked.

"That is the only transient station in the United States where you can get shipped out to an FERA camp," he replied, "that is, where us veterans can. They don't want us in Washington. So all you have to do is to show 'em you are a veteran and they ship you right out. Roosevelt and his fellows are afraid of another bonus march. Several of my friends are already down in camp working, and they get $30 to $46 a month.

"That's better than this kind of life," he concluded.

"Do you think Roosevelt is trying to do right?" I asked.

"Hell, no—or he'd never vetoed the bonus. But we'll get him in '36. I'm gonna save my money and go home and pay my poll-tax and vote against Roosevelt."

The other veterans grunted approval.

"Roosevelt is no good," one of them added. "He's throwing away a lot of money, but he's not doin' a thing for the veterans."

In another group a youngster about 20 had just come down from the Pennsylvania coal mines where he said he made $3 to $7 a day.

"They beat you on the weight," he explained, "but if you got a stand-in with the foreman, a guy can make money. I am trying to get a job on a boat to South America."

DIDN'T KNOW

ASKED WHAT he thought of Roosevelt, he said he did not know except that Roosevelt was President, and pointed out the location of a burlesque show, where for 15c you could see a "red-headed girl dance naked."

Dinner was served at 4:30. We stood in line, handing meal-slip tickets to the man in charge.

"They say you never took your bath, so you don't eat here!" he shouted at me. "Don't talk back. Go back to the bathhouse. Shove off."

At the bathhouse, the supervisor said: "What's the matter with him? I punched your card. Go back and tell him so."

This, however, made no impression on the mess supervisor, who remained belligerently suspicious of my cleanliness until the bathhouse supervisor angrily escorted me back to tell him what he thought of him.

The food was good, but extremely small in quantity and there were no seconds.

That evening at the recreation hall, a dozen others gave similar testimony regarding Roosevelt. Even though he had championed the cause of relief, they were against him. The relief was too little, or he had not found them jobs, or he had not voted for the bonus.

That many of them will have the residences or the means of carrying out their threat in 1936 is highly doubtful. Those on relief who are non-transients may be in a different category; though contact even with some of these indicated that the initial stage of gratitude had worn off.

Santa Ana citizens are to be given an opportunity to secure improvements aggregating the sum of $155,000, and a special election will probably soon be called to decide whether or not this amount will be expended. The various items which go to make up the amount are as follows: Outfall sewer to Newport bay, a reservoir for the conservation of water for domestic use of the city, a park, and a municipally owned convention hall.

One Man's Opinion

By Duncan Ellsworth Clark

EDITOR'S NOTE—Here is an informative, analytical daily feature on current topics. The opinions expressed in this column are not necessarily the same as those held by The Journal.

Political Astrologers Search the Heavens

Political astrologers are searching the heavens for signs and portents. They pounce on the tiniest specks as indicators of trends when more likely than not such flickering spots are only visual distortions. Like the old fellow sighting his rifle on a distant squirrel which proved to be only a louse on his eyebrow. Of course, the wish is often father to the thought, but among politicians the slightest wish is blessed with numerous progeny.

Hungry republicans, with fodder long overdue, snatch at the recent congressional election in Rhode Island as positive proof that the new deal is slithering away from under us. They say that the administration, even with all its Santa Claus generosities, cannot appease a disgruntled people. They say that what goes up must eventually come down and that democratic popularity has passed its highest point.

Nor can administration leaders deny that much concern is agitating their ranks. Senator Walsh, Massachusetts, expressed surprise that anti-administration feeling "had reached such proportions," and seems considerably worried over his own position next year.

If the republicans have enough wit to spring some sort of a surprise the result might well be startling. If they can forget their old platitudes and quit blathering dimes? Draw the campaign on about the glorious past, let Lincoln and his compatriots rest in peace, and grapple with tremendous present problems; if they hold no more "grass root" conventions; if they can direct their attacks at the big holes in the administration's armor; if they can rally around some, as yet, undiscovered leader, endowed with intelligence, crusading fervor and popular appeal—if these apparently insuperable obstacles can be surmounted, then victory may be within their grasp.

Perhaps the nomination of a nationally prominent woman would do the trick. At any rate, they must do something different. The old guard and the old tactics have been thoroughly discredited. Political, victories follow on great moral issues. Mere standpatism and negation and faint-hearted attacks will get nowhere in these "days which try men's souls."

Assembling in solemn conclave in routine convention next June and meticulously picking the most "available" candidate and smirking over a platitudinous platform will do them no good. Much better to spare themselves the expense and let the election go by default.

The people are tired of hearing about economics and monetary matters. Why talk in millions and billions when our fellowmen think in terms of nickels and great moral and living issues and some real action might follow.

The People

WANTS CELEBRATION

Editor, The Journal:

Why don't we have some big annual event, of the celebration order, in Orange county?

Being a recent comer to Santa Ana, I have never seen the local county fair which, I am told by my neighbors, used to be held annually nearby. Would it be feasible to restore the event? No, I am told, because that would be the entering wedge for horseracing and gambling.

Santa Barbara right now is enjoying its annual three or four day Spanish fiesta which is an enjoyable affair in which everybody joins. The parade is worth going across the state to see, and the pageant, like the one in the spring time at Hemet, is historically valuable and enjoyable.

It seems to me that life in this community would be enriched if we had some such yearly attraction to draw us all together and to pull in visitors from neighboring counties. While I am a newcomer, Mr. Editor, this idea is offered for whatever it may be worth.

Bill Deimling refuses to be retired. When the arbitrary age-limit rule of the Edison company put him on the pension roll he bought an avocado grove so he would have some place to work. Later on he changed that investment to something else, and for the past few months he has been rebuilding his north Broadway home, and getting a kick out of doing so. Bill is one of those kids who started out when he was young to learn the value and contentment of industry. He never asked any one to help him. Every check he got he earned. He is quite proud of the remodeling process in the family residence for which he is responsible. Hope he lives a hundred years more to enjoy it.

Ruty Rutan slips into a barber chair next to the one I am occupying and tries to get me to talk. There was method in this finesse. He knew if I started to exchange gab with the barber the chances for an incision were better, and then he was going on a vacation the next day so his concern about what happened to me was nil. So Ruty wouldn't be disappointed the barber uncovered the first layer of skin. The red showed up. Ruty said that was the prevailing color, and he started on his vacation at peace with all the world.

Ben Tarver wants me to read a pamphlet about the "Causes of Business Depression," written by Henry George. The author was discussing the hard times prevailing in 1894. Were you there, Charley? If you do not think Henry knew what he was talking about then read his opinions and compare them with what we are passing through today. The more you read of George the more you will know about depressions, and taxes, and where do we go from here. You may not agree with him but you will have some difficulty successfully denying his premises.

A WORLD SORROW

What many people feared has happened.

Will Rogers, the most beloved international character of our day, has fallen in death, with his companion, Wiley Post. The tragic news coming from Fort Barrows, Alaska, dealt a blow to every home in America, and extended its crushing sorrow into every city and hamlet in the civilized world.

No matter what is said by press, pulpit, or individual about Will Rogers, it will be inadequate to express the admiration and esteem of those who knew him intimately, or by those who knew him remotely.

Rogers was a great editorial-humorist. His homely expressions so truthfully revealed the cleanliness of his own heart, and the clearness of his own thinking, that it was a pleasure to read his opinions even when you disagreed with him.

Rogers was typically American. Genuine in his friendships, generous in his companionships. A great commoner is now Exalted in a Realm where full compensation will be awarded for his contributions to a happier firmament.

There was only one Will Rogers. He is gone, but what he bequeathed to mankind in encouragement and happiness remains.
